Appraisers, Lenders Accused Of Bias

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department on Friday charged a major segment of the real estate industry with illegally discriminating against blacks by forcing property values down in racially integrated neighborhoods.

Four national trade associations representing thousands of real estate appraisers and home mortgage lenders were named defendants in the civil suit filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

The defendants, all based in Chicago, are the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, the United States League of Savings Associations, and the Mortgage Bankers Association of America.

The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers said in Chicago it has "no comment at this time." Others named in the suit could not be reached for comment immediately.

The lawsuit attacks standards allegedly established by the appraisers, and followed by the lenders, in assessing property values.

Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the department's civil rights division, called the lawsuit "groundbreaking litigation."

He said the standards established by the appraisers' associations affect virtually all homes sold with conventional mortgage loans. The standards do not apply to home mortgages obtained through the Veterans Administration or the Federal Housing Administration.

The department accused the defendants of using a homeowner's race as a factor in determining the value of his property.

The appraisers' associations require appraisers automatically to reduce property values in neighborhoods which have become integrated, the department charged.

Pottinger said at a news conference that appraisers and others in the industry have perpetuated a myth that property values decline when black families move into a white neighborhood.

"This automatic presumption of a decline in value is inaccurate," he said.

Pottinger said Frank Schwelb, chief of the division's housing section, said the practices attacked in the lawsuit contribute to the deterioration of once-healthy neighborhoods into ghettos.

When the appraised value of property drops, lenders reduce the amount of mortgage money they will provide and this often makes it impossible for prospective purchasers to obtain necessary financing.

The department alleged that the defendants violated the 1968 Fair Housing Act by doing nothing to correct "overtly racially discriminatory standards and practices," followed before 1968.

Pottinger noted a 1933 appraiser's manual "actually ranked people by ethnicity" in terms of their desirability as property owners.

He said the manual listed homeowners of English, German or Scandinavian stock as number one, followed by Northern Italians, Bohemians and Czechs, Poles, Lithuanians, and Greeks. Blacks ranked next to last and Mexicans were last.

That ranking is no longer in effect, but the suit charged that the defendants have perpetuated discriminatory practices "which have continued to cause appraisers and lenders to treat race and national origin as a negative factor in determining the value of dwellings and in evaluating the soundness of home loans."

The department seeks a court order forcing the defendants to end the alleged discrimination.

Patients Still Owe $3.7 Million

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State auditors say 80%, or $3.7 million, of the bills owed the State Department of Public Institutions by former patients were not paid last year.

That is evidence, they said, the department hasn't been vigorous enough in pursuing past-due bills.

The money has been owed for longer than 180 days, auditors found during the fiscal year ending December 1975. Some accounts were reported as long as four years overdue.

State Auditor Ray A.C. Johnson's performance audit staff reported these conclusions in a report released Friday.

Regarding the delinquent accounts, auditors said: "These accounts over 90 days old . . . often lack sufficient documentation and current information to allow collection. Between December 1974, and December 1975, only 20% of the dollar amount of accounts turned over to the central office had been collected."

All totaled accounts receivable for state institutions came to $5.8 million as of December 1975. That includes the four regional centers, the Beatrice State Home, community mental retardation programs and community mental health centers.

Auditors recommended "greater management supervision" in the collection of bills owed the state.

State Institutions Director Jack Cleavenger acknowledged the problem with bills owed the state.

"We've never taken anything to court. We may have to," he said.

In normal collection procedures for past-due bills, the state "has never exercised any power," Cleavenger said, adding that some cannot afford to pay.

However, billings for treatment are based in part on a person's ability to pay. Consequently, indigents would not be billed.

Auditors said, "The central office has established rules, policies and procedures to be utilized by the facilities to determine ability to pay for patient care, processing bills, collecting payments and disposing of uncollectable accounts.

"However, the central office does not audit the work at the facilities to determine if the directives are being followed."

They said there are no assurances that all efforts have been made to get reimbursement and that uncollectable accounts are not merely omitted from records.

Cleavenger added that a central billing system will begin this July which should improve the situation.

Auditors also criticized state institutions' computerized data system. The system has cost $196,000 to implement since December 1973, and auditors said, "None of the (five) systems have achieved their intended purpose."

A re-evaluation of the computer system was recommended along with elimination if it is not proved justified.

Thus far, the system has been used by fewer than half of the state regional centers and clinics, they said. The only use for one system so far has been to print the names and Social Security numbers of employes on time cards, auditors said. That task was formerly done by employes at no cost to the state.

In addition, auditors recommended the Department of Institutions seek legislative help in establishing administrative controls over community mental health clinics, which are funded through state and local resources but governed by boards of local officials.

The only way the state has had of exercising control has been to cutoff funding. The state has rejected that alternative, since it would hurt patients needing care.

BILL SHOWS GUITAR . . . to Norwood student John Hall.

Guitarist Leads 1st-Graders

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

The little people chairs were arranged in a semicircle in a corner of the classroom. A few of Mrs. Velma C. Spencer's 1st grade students had already wandered to the area in anticipation of what was to come.

Then, electric guitar in hand, Bill Chrastil arrived at Norwood Park Elementary School and the jamboree began.

The half hour of singing started with songs such as "Oh, Susannah" and "She'll Be Comin' 'round the Mountain."

Then the finale. Bill stood up, took a wide stance, turned up his collar in Elvis Presley style, strummed his guitar and the youngsters joined him singing and dancing (and giggling) to "Blue Suede Shoes."

Bill had captured the 1st-graders' attention through the universal language of music.

Bill, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Chrastil, of 7240 Webster, is one of two male students enrolled in an "Exploring Childhood" class at Northeast.

The 17-year-old is among 32 students in the course, which examines the mental and physical development of children.

One of the course's assignments is to spend one hour three days a week with students at local elementary schools.

That's how the 1st-graders of Norwood Park came to know Bill.

"Mom has sisters who have little kids and I decided I had to learn to be more patient," he said, citing one reason for taking the class.

But his interest in children, Bill said, comes primarily from his parents "who like working with kids and always helped us and the neighbor kids in Scouts."

"If you keep them interested in what you are doing you can control them," he said. "But you have to take an interest in them too."

For example, "I promised a girl (in the Norwood Park class) I would read her a story when I came back the next day," Bill said. "The next day she came up to me and asked me about it. I told her I didn't think I would be able to because I had some other things to do. But she said, 'You promised.'

"They remember," he explained. "If you don't do what you said you would, they'll mistrust you."

Mrs. Spencer said that girl "had a problem with reading and I couldn't get through to her.

"But Bill gave her his attention and he got through to her," she said, adding in a whisper, "Most of the little girls have a crush on him."

Bill's other interests include karate and the aerospace program on which he gave a presentation in Mrs. Spencer's class.

Upon graduation in May, Bill plans to pursue a continuing music career as a member of the "Timberwolf" rock band, for which his younger brother Rick plays bass.

But he concedes there is a possibility he may return to school later to become a teacher.

Military Subsidizes Vacation Spots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon spends $12.6 million a year to subsidize overseas vacation resorts for its officers and enlisted men and violates regulations by assigning military personnel to work in them, congressional auditors said Friday.

The General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, reported also that many guests at the facilities in Germany, the Philippines and Hawaii were U.S. civilians and foreign nationals.

It recommended that certain recreational areas be consolidated or closed down. It said this would save $3.6 million a year in Germany alone.

The report was made public by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who said he does not object to subsidized vacations for lower-ranking military families who might otherwise not be able to afford it.

"But the abuses, management inefficiencies, and just plain waste in these programs should be brought to an end immediately," he said.

The GAO studied the military resort at Germisch, Germany, the John Hai Air Base Recreational Facility in the Philippines, the Kilauea Military Camp in Hawaii's Volcanoes National Park and the recently built 15-story Hale Ka Hotel in Honolulu.

Although military personnel are not supposed to be assigned to purely recreational duties, the GAO said at Garmisch that 193 soldiers were used as ski-lift operators, bowling alley pinsetters, ski patrolmen, golf course groundskeepers, tour guides, store clerks, sports instructors, hotel couriers, mail clerks, conference coordinators, and public information assistants.

"This has not only cut back the number of men for combat duties in Europe but the GAO found that many of the military personnel assigned to Garmisch had critical specialities needed elsewhere in Europe," said Proxmire.

The GAO said military personnel also are used for recreational duties in Hawaii and the Philippines.

It said active U.S. military personel have been turned away from the Garmisch resort because rooms were occupied by foreign military guests, U.S. military retirees and U.S. civilians.

The GAO said that although foreign military guests pay a small surcharge, the fee does not cover the full cost of using the facilities.

The report noted that 7,989 Philippine nationals have been issued guest membership cards as a good will gesture.

GONE WITH THE WIND . . . Scott Allen, Dan Nelson, David Allen, and Rex Nelson (clockwise from top left) lost clubhouse to gust.

Winds Whip Central, East Areas

Strong winds, gusting as high as 79 miles per hour at Norfolk, slapped central and eastern Nebraska Friday.

The peak gusts clocked at the Lincoln Airport was 64 m.p.h. Friday afternoon, while a 71 m.p.h. gust hit Eppley Airfield at Omaha.

One wind-related injury was reported to Lincoln police.

Angela Rosalas, 21, of 640 S. 20th, said she was struck in the ankle when a large panel blew from a sign at Standard's IGA Foodliner at 1300 K. She was treated at Lincoln General Hospital and released.

Wind also ripped off a portion of a metal canopy at the U-Save Oil Co. station at 84th and U.S. 6, and blew the lamp from a street light pole.

At Norfolk, police reported the high winds downed the big arch at McDonald's hamburger drive-in. The arch fell on several cars, but no one was injured.

A couple of plate glass windows were blown out of stores at Norfolk and a number of tree branches were downed, the police added.

At the Eppley weather service office in Omaha, a few windows were broken by a 70 m.p.h. gust of wind.

After sundown the winds began subsiding and by 7 p.m. were down to 25 m.p.h. at Lincoln and 35 m.p.h. at Norfolk, gusting up to 46 m.p.h.

Meanwhile, agricultural observers said rains have slowed the potential wind damage to soils in Nebraska although the winds are drying the soil rapidly.

Allen Boettcher, Lancaster County agent, said, "If it hadn't rained, we would have had a lot of dirt moving. There was some soil loss Friday, and will be more if the wind doesn't stop or unless we get some more rain."

Dave Stenberg, associate Dawson County agent at Lexington, reported the wind wasn't a problem there due to an inch to two inches of rain over most of the county.

W. J. Parker, state conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, said recent rains have slowed the wind damage in most locations around the state.

Christian Pilgrims Stung By Sand

JERUSALEM (AP) — Christian pilgrims braved a stinging sandstorm on the ancient road to Calvary on Good Friday and sang afternoon devotions on the skull-shaped hill revered as the spot where Jesus died on the cross.

Yellowish clouds of sand blown in from the deserts cast a powdery haze over Jerusalem and most of the Holy Land, and Roman Catholic groups at private shrines throughout Jerusalem read words from St. Luke eerily descriptive of Friday's unusual weather:

"And there was darkness over the whole land . . . while the sun's light faded and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. Then Jesus, crying in a loud voice, said "Father, into Thy hands I commit my spirit."

Throngs of pilgrims from around the world carried heavy wooden crosses on the narrow Street of Sorrow, or Via Dolorosa, leading to the dark chamber on Golgotha under the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

The vast halls of the church were jammed with thousands of faithful from noon to 3 p.m., the hours observed as the duration of the crucifixion.

Devotees sang and prayed in a cacaphony of languages — English, Arabic, Portuguese — and lit candles at the Stone of Unction, where Christ's body was anointed before being laid in the tomb.

Israel's Easter security was the tightest in years following Arab riots protesting Israeli occupation of the west bank of the Jordan River since the 1967 Middle East war. The violence spread to Jerusalem and erupted frequently on the Via Dolorosa.

But there have been no major disturbances for two weeks and no incidents were reported Friday as soldiers with assault guns watched from the roofs of the ancient neighborhood in the Moslem quarter.

Sandstorms closed many Israeli tourist spots and beaches and forced internal airlines to cancel some holiday flights.

The only airfields remaining open were Tel Aviv's Ben Gurion International Airport and the strategic airstrip at Sharm el Sheikh, the southern tip of the Sinai Peninsula.

The winds and heavy dust prompted Jewish and Christian scholars to recall the descriptions of strange weather at the first Easter and Passover. Rabbi Levi Yitzhak Rabinowitz said the Scriptures told of unseasonal hail and darkness at the time of Passover, now in its third day.

The Franciscan guardian of the Holy Land, the Most Rev. Maurilio Sacchi, leads a procession at the climax of the Good Friday observances to the site of the crucifixion.

There a copy of Christ's body is taken down from the cross, anointed and transferred to the dark chamber revered as the tomb of the resurrection.

Capsule Capsizes; 13 Die

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A capsule-lifeboat packed with workers who escaped a sinking oil rig capsized in the stormy Gulf of Mexico, and 13 men died as rescuers battled waves two stories high and gale force winds in an attempt to right the craft.

Officials said Friday that a rapidly developing storm trapped the $20 million Ocean Express oil rig and 35 crewmen in high seas on Thursday night. It sank in 187 feet of water as it was being towed to a new location.

The crew tried to escape in two saucer-shaped capsules similar in appearance to the spacecraft used by the Apollo astronauts.

One of the capsule-lifeboats turned over and the hatch opened allowing six of the occupants to escape but drowning 13 others as the water rushed in. A tugboat tried in vain to pluck it from heavy seas.

A second capsule with 15 aboard was hoisted to safety by a tug.

The captain, Peter van der Graff, was the last man to leave the rig. He was pulled off when it was more than half-submerged by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter that lowered a basket.

All the survivors were taken to hospitals in nearby Port O'Connor and Port Aransas and some were held for observation.

"Everyone got off the rig safely. The casualties occurred while they were trying to rescue them from one of the survival capsules," said Cmdr. John DeCarteret, in charge of marine inspection for the U.S. Coast Guard in Corpus Christi.

Nobody could say exactly what happened, although officials said rigs are most vulnerable to storms during a move because their 250-foot legs are pulled from the water and are sticking up into the air.

An official of Ocean Drilling & Exploration Co. (ODECO) of New Orleans, owners of the rig, was asked what happened. "It was apparently overturned by the waves."

Earlier, another company official said, "It's just a freak accident. We don't know exactly what happened. These capsules are supposed to float head up."

Carter Wants National Health Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter called Friday for a universal and mandatory national health insurance program funded by general tax revenues, and employer and employe payroll taxes.

In a speech to a student medical organization, the Georgia Democrat said if he is elected president, "I would want to give our people the most rapid improvement in individual health care the nation can afford, accommodating first those who need it most, with the understanding that it will be a comprehensive program in the end."

He emphasized that national health problems are only "one strand of a seamless social web" which he said must be attacked from many directions.

Carter declared: "We have built a haphazard, unsound, undirected, inefficient, non-system which has left us unhealthy and unwealthy at the same time."

His insurance proposals cited no cost figures and he said their accomplishment would not be quick or easy.

But he listed these principles for national health insurance:

—Universal and mandatory coverage.

—Reduced barriers to preventive care in order to lower the need for hospitalization.

—Shared financing among general tax revenues and employer and employe payroll taxes.

—Establishment of machinery to monitor the quality of health care.

—Rates set in advance for institutional care and doctor services.

—Freedom of choice in the selection of physician and treatment center.

Speaking to the Student National Medical Association, an organization of minority group medical students, Carter said that illnesses affecting minorities are "not of one patient but of an entire system . . . The diseases have begun and spread from politics and society itself."

Carter also said Medicare and Medicaid programs must be reorganized.

"Medicaid has become a national scandal," he said. "It is being bilked of millions of dollars by charlatans."

He criticized the government for trying to meet unexpected cost increases in Medicare and Medicaid by trying to "shift part of the inflation back to the poorest of our citizens in the form of increased deductibles, co-insurance and consequently reduced benefits."

Carter said other steps beyond health policy changes also could improve the nation's medical picture. Welfare reform "may prevent more sickness and disease during the next generation than could be achieved by placing $600,000 body-scanning x-rays in every hospital," he said.

He said control of occupational hazards would reduce cancer accidents and respiratory disease and abatement of air and water pollution "would prevent millions from eating and drinking poisons which will lead to long costly illness and disability 10 or 20 years from now."

And he said the government should spend more to inform citizens about nutrition and self-care.

Doris Day Marries Barry Comden

Carmel, Calif. (UPI) — Singer Doris Day has married Barry D. Comden, 41, a Beverly Hills businessman, friends disclosed Friday. "They were married last Wednesday at my home in Carmel," Lawrence Spector, owner of a resort in Big Sur, said. Spector said Miss Day and her husband were now honeymooning "somewhere south."

Chemicals Are Risk

Washington (UPI) — More than one million working women of child-bearing age are exposed to industrial chemicals that might cause miscarriage or birth defects, the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health said Friday.

N.Y. Times Summary

Birth Control Policy Outlined

New Delhi — The Indian government Friday outlined a broad new birth control policy designed to give "top national priority" to slowing the rapid growth of this country's population. The long-awaited program, which included raising the minimum marriage age and paying more money to people who voluntarily have themselves sterilized, stopped short of nationwide compulsory sterilization, which has been intensely debated by Indians in recent months.

Husak Returns To Power

Prague — Amid cheers of "with the Soviet Union forever," Gustav Husak was returned to power Friday for another five years as leader of the Czechoslovak Communist Party.

Kissinger Called Irresponsible

Hong Kong — North Vietnam charged Friday that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had "irresponsibly" misinterpreted a recent exchange of notes between Hanoi and Washington by suggesting in Senate testimony that progress was being made toward normalizing relations between the United States and North Vietnam.

Airport Curfew No Problem

San Diego — An extraordinary airport curfew banning all late-night takeoffs and most late-night landings here has entered its fourth month with none of the dire economic ill effects or serious inconveniences forecast by airlines and other opponents of the noise-control measure.

Shoes Safe From Tariff

Washington — President Ford decided Friday against imposing higher tariffs or other import restraints on foreign shoes.

Housing Starts Decline

Washington — Housing starts declined in March but remained far above their recession lows, the Commerce Department reported Friday. A dip in March had been anticipated because unusually warm weather in February produced a big jump in starts in that month on a seasonally adjusted basis. At an annual rate of 1,444,000, starts in March were higher than in January and every month last year. Starts in March a year ago were at a rate of 986,000.

Daily Death Toll Is 208 Lebanese

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Intense fighting Friday claimed the highest daily death toll in the last three months of Lebanon's Moslem-Christian civil war as political leaders studied the latest Syrian peace proposal.

Police said 208 persons were killed and hundreds more wounded.

"It is a mad day of killing," said a security official who gave the death toll. "People are falling, and doctors are unable to approach them because of heavy gunfire."

The year-old civil war, which conservative estimates say has killed 15,500, has developed into a struggle by leftist Moslems to gain more power in Lebanon's government, dominated by rightist Christians since World War II.

George Gorse, a former French cabinet ministern told a news conference after a week-long mediation effort that he expected Christian President Suleiman Franjieh to sign a constitutional amendment Saturday to allow immediate election of a new president.

Franjieh's resignation has been demanded by leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt, whose forces have stepped up fighting against the Christians.

Mortar shells fell at random on both sides Friday, hitting hospitals and residential quarters. In one case Palestinian guerrillas lowered the muzzles of antiaircraft guns and shelled Christian enclaves in eastern sections of Beirut, police reported.

A duststorm reduced visibility for about an hour, causing a drop in the level of combat. But the tempo picked up again later.

Residents in several Beirut suburbs stood in long lines at bakeries to buy bread. Scores were reported killed by sniper bullets, sudden bursts of machine-gun fire and mortar blasts.

Fires were set in a candy factory and seven residential buildings in eastern Beirut, police said. Fighting raged in mountain resort areas north of the capital along the line dividing Moslem and Christian forces.

Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat returned to Beirut from an all-night meeting in Damascus with Syrian President Hafez Assad carrying a Syrian-Palestinian peace proposal designed to produce a new cease-fire, the 35th in a year.

Rain Falls As River Rises More At Minot

Minot, N.D. (AP) — The Souris River, held back by earthen dikes, kept rising Friday as new rains prolonged the agony of this flood-prone city of 32,000. The rain meant the river, originally expected to crest Saturday, could keep rising until Monday.

Officials feared the new rains could erode the dikes, weakening them before the river recedes and making it more difficult to work o them. But they expressed confidence in the over-all defenses.

Minot is struggling to contain its fifth flood in seven years. About 12,000 residents have been evacuated from low-lying areas.

On Friday afternoon alone, the National Weather Service reported about one-half inch of rain, and it said up to 2 inches were possible in the river's basin from the storm. At that rate, it said, the river would crest Monday 8 feet above flood stage.

That would be 1½ feet above the previous prediction of 6½ feet, and 2 feet below the top of the dikes.

Another crucial prediction — for a peak water flow of 10,000 cubic feet per second — remained the same, however.

One casualty of the flood was reported Friday when a car with four persons left a road and went into the river overflow about 60 miles north of here. One person was missing. The other three escaped.

Tucson Has Snow

By United Press International

Snow fell on the desert community of Tucson, Ariz., Friday and piled up more than a foot in the Arizona mountains.

A spring heat wave gripped the Midwest and high winds battered southwest Texas and portions of California.

Officials in Connecticut, where fires already have blackened 550 acres, considered declaring a forest fire emergency for the weekend.

Tucson, Ariz., seldom gets snow in the dead of winter, but it had flurries beginning early Friday. Nearby Mt. Lemon reported 14 inches of snow Flagstaff got hit with 16 inches The National Weather Service called it a "major winter storm."

Winter storm warnings also were raised for southern Utah and Wyoming and heavy snows were forecast for much of western Colorado, New Mexico and the foothills of Montana.

Wind gusted up to 80 miles per hour in the California desert near Barstow where rains were reported driven horizontally and 40 m.p.h. gusts piled up snows at Big Bear Lake above Los Angeles.

Hundreds Of Businessmen Flee Troubled Italy

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Hundreds of Italian businessmen reportedly have been fleeing or are preparing to flee their homeland to safer havens in Canada and elsewhere because of unsettled conditions and fear of Communists and kidnapings

Consulate sources reported the favorite places for such "luxury" emigrants were Canada, Venezuela and Brazil, offering better investment opportunities and a more stable political situation

An official of the Canadian consulate in Milan said requests for information about settling in Canada have risen 30% since last June, after the big advance of Marxist parties in regional elections

The number again grew in the first months this year when the prospect of early elections, which might win the Communists a place in the government, increased and the lira began to lose value

Plagued by violence and economic instability, the ruling Christian Democrats have been unable to forge a majority government with the Socialists, who insist that the Communist party, the strongest in Western Europe, be given a voice

The United States has strongly opposed a Communist role in government, concerned about the effect on Italy's role as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization

Stephen Bigsby, vice consul and assistant trade commissioner of the Canadian consulate in Milan, said businessmen seeking residence abroad were not only trying to flee the Communist specter, but also a state of perennial uncertainty

"You cannot conduct business without knowing what is coming next," he said

Canada granted 6,800 visas to Italians last year, 20% more than the year before The upward trend in visas was expected to continue this year, Bigsby said

Consulate sources said most of last year's emigrants were people who invested money in Canada in the 1960s, years of economic boom in Italy

"They especially invested in real estate, one source said

Others owned commercial branches or firms assembling parts imported from Italy

"One typical case,' Bigsby said, is the businessman aged about 50 sending his sons to Canada to manage local branches of his Italian firm

The father also has a Canadian visa, but continues his business in Italy He keeps the door open in case of emergency "

The businessmen might view a Communist takeover as such an emergency, despite the party's efforts to show respect for pluralism and for the private enterprise

Fear of kidnapings for ransom is another reason Fifty-eight persons were kidnaped for profit last year and 13 have been so far this year Most of them were wealthy businessmen

Clothing Spending Up

New York (UPI) — Consumers will spend 15 more on clothing and accessories this year than the $70 billion they spent last year according to the Standard and Poor's publication Industry Surveys It says the reasons for the projected increase stem from rising disposable income, stronger consumer confidence and fairly stable apparel prices

More Demonstrations Called

PARIS (AP) — Calls went out Friday for more street demonstrations next week against proposed university reforms as France faced the worst student unrest since the riots that shook the government of Charles de Gaulle in 1968

New street marches were called for next Tuesday and Wednesday after some 100,000 students in Paris and other major cities Thursday demanded a halt to the proposed reforms that would make instruction more job oriented

But the government kept talking to student leaders, a significant contrast with the situation eight years ago Then there was was no contact and only limited student articulation of specific complaints about the educational system

Police said 200 students were arrested but not charged with crimes after rampaging "provacateurs' bearing black flags and armed with iron bars attacked a loudspeaker van leading the march, smashed shop windows and damaged cars parked along the Seine River quays

Student leaders said they were not associated with the violence March marshals tried to keep the 200 to 300 provocateurs at the rear of the march but were overwhelmed in violent clashes

The student battles of 1968 brought on a general strike and a moment of near anarchy

Women's Libbers Idiotic, Says Heir

New York (UPI) — Prince Charles, 27, heir to the British throne says women's libbers are idiotic and that he is firmly opposed to divorce

'Those idiotic women who go around telling all the other women to think the way they do — basically I think because they want to be men — are, to my mind totally wrong he said

Hundreds Of Businessmen Flee Troubled Italy

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Hundreds of Italian businessmen reportedly have been fleeing or are preparing to flee their homeland to safer havens in Canada and elsewhere because of unsettled conditions and fear of Communists and kidnapings.

Consulate sources reported the favorite places for such "luxury" emigrants were Canada, Venezuela and Brazil, offering better investment opportunities and a more stable political situation.

An official of the Canadian consulate in Milan said requests for information about settling in Canada have risen 30% since last June, after the big advance of Marxist parties in regional elections.

The number again grew in the first months this year when the prospect of early elections, which might win the Communists a place in the government, increased and the lira began to lose value.

Plagued by violence and economic instability, the ruling Christian Democrats have been unable to forge a majority government with the Socialists, who insist that the Communist party, the strongest in Western Europe, be given a voice.

The United States has strongly opposed a Communist role in government, concerned about the effect on Italy's role as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Stephen Bigsby, vice consul and assistant trade commissioner of the Canadian consulate in Milan, said businessmen seeking residence abroad were not only trying to flee the Communist specter, but also a state of perennial uncertainty.

"You cannot conduct business without knowing what is coming next," he said.

Canada granted 6,800 visas to Italians last year, 20% more than the year before. The upward trend in visas was expected to continue this year, Bigsby said.

Consulate sources said most of last year's emigrants were people who invested money in Canada in the 1960s, years of economic boom in Italy.

"They especially invested in real estate," one source said.

Others owned commercial branches or firms assembling parts imported from Italy.

"One typical case," Bigsby said, "is the businessman aged about 50 sending his sons to Canada to manage local branches of his Italian firm.

"The father also has a Canadian visa, but continues his business in Italy. He keeps the door open in case of emergency."

The businessmen might view a Communist takeover as such an emergency, despite the party's efforts to show respect for pluralism and for the private enterprise.

Fear of kidnapings for ransom is another reason. Fifty-eight persons were kidnaped for profit last year, and 13 have been so far this year. Most of them were wealthy businessmen.

Incumbency Has Drawbacks, Too

Ronald Reagan still stirs up his audiences with attacks on such villains as Henry Kissinger and the president of Panama. Those audiences who cheer such demagoguery comprise his hard-core support; they belong to him and would cheer whatever he said, no matter how it might bewilder the American mainstream.

Reagan's blustering, pushy jingoism, while it scares President Ford into talking out of the right side of his mouth more frequently, doesn't seem to be making much headway beyond Reagan's nucleus of faithful.

It is difficult for many people to believe that President Ford, who had spent a quarter century in Congress as a pal of the Pentagon, would let U.S. military preparedness slip to a dangerous level. Ford proudly claims that he has proposed the two highest military budgets in peacetime history. Indeed, while that may leave many people who have priorities different than overwhelming strategic superiority shaking their heads, it does blunt the Reagan argument

On the issue of detente, Reagan, like many critics of detente, fails to understand what it is all about. There is more take in the give-and-take than readily meets the eye.

And in insisting that the U.S. hang on to the Panama Canal Zone lock, stock and barrel at all costs, that there is nothing to negotiate and in suggesting that Panama's "tin-horn dictator" go soak his head, Reagan reveals his unfitness to serve as president.

That "shove it to 'em" approach raises cheers on the stump, but when reality and responsibility are taken into account, altogether different courses of action are called for.

The Ford administration is taking reality into account in its negotiations on the Panama Canal. A failure on the part of this country to work out a new treaty would invite hostility toward us all over Latin America — an area to which we should be devoting much more careful attention.

The Reagan approach in dealing with the world, if given full play, could only isolate the U.S. and place the nation in such a weakened position that all the arms in the world could not keep us "Number One."

If Ford has the magic of the incumbency working for him in this primary election, Reagan has the luxury of being able to speak without the responsibility of having to act.

We don't believe that Reagan's foreign policy message will win majority approval in America. That is our hope at any rate.

A recent NBC poll shows Ford's popularity rating among Republicans on the increase and his foreign policy rating higher than Reagan's.

The crowds may cheer as Reagan takes pot shots at "tin-horn dictators", but that kind of target practice won't mean much in the long run.

Rush Job On Flu Shots

The mass inoculation program designed to combat an expected outbreak of the type of influenza that killed 20 million people around the world at the end of WWI was approved and funded this week.

President Ford signed a bill committing federal support in the amount of $135 million to the program which aims at having all Americans inoculated against swine flu by the end of the year.

There is still some professional resistance to the idea that a mass inoculation program is necessary. There have even been inferences by some health officials at the state level and by others that the anti-flu program is politically motivated. Such accusations in our opinion are meanspirited and uncalled for.

But the weight of professional opinion seems to be that the American public would benefit from protection against a possible epidemic; that there could be a considerable savings in human lives, especially among the very young, the old and the weak.

We applaud the decision to go forward with the program and take note of another salutary development in connection with it.

Congress, usually working at a turtle's pace, expedited the flu vaccine legislation at comparative breakneck speed.

It thus permitted itself a rare demonstration that Congress can sprint when the public's health and welfare is at stake.

The only thing unfortunate about such demonstrations is the resulting public expectations.

Lincoln, Nebr.

Now that the Lincoln Public School Administration, with the help of the local news media, has encouraged Lincolnites to accept the fact that the issue over MACOS ("Man: A Course of Study") is dead, I would like to assure anyone interested that it is most certainly not. Slowly, but surely, many things are beginning to shed light on the persons and policies involved in this issue

To say the least, MACOS has been a very controversial subject from its very beginning. In the early 1960's, using $4,797,380 of the U.S. taxpayers' dollars granted by Congress to the National Science Foundation, MACOS was initially developed by Jerome Brunner, who served as Eisenhower's chief of psychological warfare during WW II. The course was initially rejected by 50 publishers as being too costly and substandard.

Not to be outdone, the National Science Foundation used tax money to promote the course until at least 1,700 schools in 470 school districts, in 47 states were using the course by 1975. This promotion cost the American taxpayers $2,166,900 from 1969-1975 The program, including 16 sexually explicit and violent films, 26 booklets, filmstrips, records, photomurals, and teaching aids, costs schools $3,000 for each 30-student classroom set, plus $8 75 for every student set.

What this all means is that our tax dollars were used to promote an "educational course of study" in competition with other private companies. This funding of MACOS by Congress has now been stopped this year only because enough pressure was put on congressmen to stop such a misuse of tax dollars. This information is taken from the Congressional Record.

In studying human civilization through MACOS, school children are exposed to such various "human characteristics" as adultery, bestiality, cannibalism, incest, infanticide, murder, revenge, robbery, wife-swapping, and sexual promiscuity Additionally, students study these "human characteristics" by examining the culture of the Netsilik Eskimos, an isolated tribe of Canadian Eskimos of which there are no more than 150 in the entire world

This sample of humans chosen by MACOS is the only example of human development utilized in the course Studies of lower animal groups, such as salmon and baboons are studied in an order of natural selection (evolution) This is all done so that students may realize what makes them "human"

At closed teacher seminars, educators are instructed by MACOS operatives to "draw students out" about their home and family life, arguments between their parents, social habits, etc. This information from the students is used in classroom discussions of home life. Children are encouraged to take notes about their parents' private behavior and to report on them to their teachers. These lines of thought set up by Jerome S. Brunner and B. F. Skinner were designed to mold children's social attitudes and beliefs along lines that set them apart from the beliefs and morals of their parents and community.

The use of lower grades makes it all the easier for these behavioral scientists to mold a new generation of Americans toward a repudiation of traditional values, behaviors, and patriotic beliefs.

These issues bring us to the controversy here in Lincoln. How did MACOS find its way here? I believe it is time that the citizens of Lincoln take a closer look at the individuals involved in this issue. Maybe the problem isn't just MACOS, but the individuals and attitudes it represents.

I believe that it is quite a coincidence that the arrival in 1967 of the present superintendent of schools coincides quite closely with the initial implementation of MACOS into the Lincoln schools. I believe that most Lincolnites might not be aware that John Prasch and Ron Brandt are working together here in Lincoln after working together in Racine, Wisconsin, public schools and on the staff of the federally funded Upper Midwest Regional Educational Laboratory in Minneapolis, Minnesota This fact and the ones that follow are documented by articles in the Lincoln Star newspaper.

Mr. Brandt spoke here in Lincoln in June of 1968, before he had a position in the Lincoln schools. The fact that he implied then that the middle grades of school are the best to use the peer group influence to mold or even change a child's values and attitudes might reveal his views on a course such as MACOS.

In October of 1969, Mr Prasch stated his view that the power of the school is almost limitless This view might be questioned by many parents at this time and I believe it is time that the schools of Lincoln return to being accountable to the parents, taxpayers, and citizens of Lincoln

I believe that the individuals involved with the power struggle which MACOS represents are counting on a silent majority I am asking a small minority of citizens to educate themselves, band together, and stop this outrage which is present in our schools

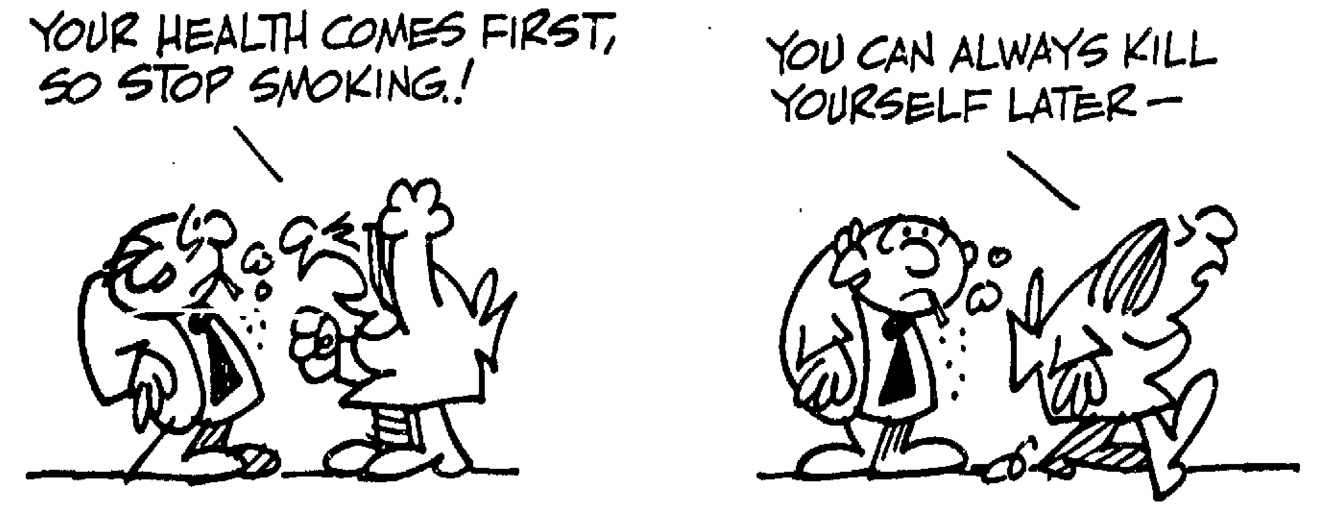
Tobacco Defense Against More Taxes



YOUR HEALTH COMES FIRST, SO STOP SMOKING.!
YOU CAN ALWAYS KILL YOURSELF LATER —
BRICKMAN

Washington Star Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON — Cigarette smokers may not heed government warnings about the health hazards of their habit, but two senators hope they might listen to a pocketbook appeal.

Taking on a determined group of opponents from tobacco-growing states, Gary Hart (D-Colo.) and Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) have proposed adding a new tax to cigarettes based on their tar and nicotine content. The price of the lowest-tar cigarette would go up only 3 cents a pack, but smokers of high-tar brands would pay as much as 50 cents extra. The tax would be in addition to the existing 8-cents-a-pack federal tax and state taxes ranging from 2 to 21 cents a pack.

On the theory that smokers should help pay for the consequences of their habit, the bill would set aside funds raised by the tax — possibly $9-billion a year or more by 1980 — for health research and health education.

The two senators call the bill a reasonable response to evidence linking cigarette smoking to cancer and heart disease. The top health official in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare calls smoking the "largest single unnecessary and preventable cause of illness and early death."

"On the one hand, we want to preserve the option and freedom of individuals to select whatever brand of cigarette they want," Kennedy said. "But we also want to provide an important incentive to the industry itself to come up with lower tar and lower nicotine cigarettes."

Tobacco's defenders, arguing that smoking has not been proved to be the actual cause of diseases, state flatly that the proposal would wipe out the income of many farmers.

Hart and Kennedy insist they do not want to hurt tobacco farmers, just encourage them to grow safer tobacco. Even if the bill shifted more of the market to lower-tar brands of cigarettes, they add, there is no evidence that over-all sales would suffer.

But Horace R. Kornegay, president of the industry's Tobacco Institute, says previous experience with smaller price increases indicates the taxes would hurt sales. "Almost doubling the cost (of some brands) would have a devastating effect," he contends. "There is a price people won't go above."

Kornegay also argues that the industry itself is accomplishing the shift to low-tar brands desired by the senators. Lower-tar cigarettes now hold about 11% of the market, he said, compared to 3% a few years ago.

In response to other arguments, Kennedy and Hart stress that the bill would leave people free to decide whether or not to smoke and which brand to smoke. But given health hazards, they argue, their approach is a minimum step.

Tobacco's defenders argue just as vigorously that personal decisions about smoking should remain just that, without any government interference. "We have a right, a few freedoms to do what we want," argues Sen. Robert Morgan (D-N.C.).

Opponents of the bill also object to taxing tobacco heavily if things like alcohol, air pollution and occupational hazards are not treated the same way.

Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah), a Mormon who has led a long battle against smoking, dismisses these arguments as a diversionary tactic. Congress has passed other legislation to deal with other health problems, sponsors of the tax proposal add.

No one criticizes popular health research programs, but the opponents and some outside scientists also question whether the government could spend effectively all the money raised by the tax. Hart counters that the funds certainly would not be wasted.

But Morgan regards earmarking the taxes for health as a "good political gimmick" that just disguises another attempt to make tobacco "a national whipping boy."

"Kennedy has never failed to call on the national Treasury for anything he needs . . ., Morgan argues. "If we need $10-billion to cure cancer — okay, let's do it (provide the money directly)."

☆ ☆ ☆

Based on past experience, prospects for congressional approval of the new proposal appear remote. President Ford also has said he opposes the bill.

Moss suggests several reasons Congress resists anti-smoking legislation.

"The tobacco lobby is very effective. They can command a tight little core of senators," he says. "Beyond that, it seems to be a matter of accommodation (by various farm interests) and some indifference. I guess people are inured to smoking."

Wallace Is Her Choice

Lincoln, Neb.

The bigots and news media are again denouncing Alabama Governor George C. Wallace. Due to my "Wallace-for-President" bumper sticker, many teenagers ask: "Are you really for Wallace, a man who would not let children go to school?"

Segregation is no longer an issue. At the time Governor Wallace stood in the schoolhouse door, he was upholding the laws of the State of Alabama. I know Governor Wallace would have stood in the door of an all-black school had white students tried to integrate it at the time. Of the two students who were sent to integrate the school, one of them says he will vote for Wallace for president.

The state AFL-CIO supported Wallace for governor in appreciation of his fight for organized labor in Alabama. The Chattahoochee Valley Building and Construction Trades Council of Columbus, Georgia, has endorsed Wallace as their choice for Democratic candidate.

Under the Wallace act in Alabama, the schools have had a 350% increase in funds in 10 years. More than 30 trade schools and junior colleges have been built. A new four-year medical school was established in Mobile and new two-year residency programs in Tuscaloosa and Huntsville. Medical facilities at the world-famous medical center in Birmingham expanded.

Leadership has been shown in highways, in industrial development, in strong law-enforcement, in benefits and pay raises for working people, in parks and recreation, in health care and mental health programs, in increased revenue to farmers.

Governor Wallace is my choice for president of the United States.

Sensible Solution

Raymond, Neb.

"When guns are outlawed, only outlaws will have guns."

This is a slogan I saw on a bumper-sticker recently, and it makes a lot of sense. What is needed much more than disarming an already unprotected public is more stringent enforcement of existing laws pertaining to every sort of crime against society, and mandatory prison sentences against those who commit a felony while using a fire-arm.

This is by far the most sensible and effective solution to the fire-arm problem, and as such will probably escape the eyes of our legislators, who are neither.

The Primary Ballot

Chicago, Ill.

I find it impossible to take seriously the ballot action of Nebraska's secretary of state for the following reasons:

(1) Nowhere in news reports have I read that a single primary petition, notarized or not, was ever filed to have the names of Senator Hubert Humphrey or Senator Kennedy placed on the ballot.

(2) On the contrary, it was stated that affidavits had been filed disclaiming the candidacy of the two senators. Also, since the methods of candidates for having their names placed on ballots vary widely across the country, what is done in Oregon has nothing to do with the methods used in Nebraska.

Therefore, how can the ballot action of the secretary be anything other than undemocratic?

I am wondering if (1) it is an infringement of the Voting Rights Act which protected the voting rights of all citizens, and (2) if it is a dog-in-the-manger operation in the secretary's not taking the lead in denouncing a bad law and lobbying for a change.

I appreciated the March 31 story by Tom Cook: "Two Women Conquer Deaf, Blind Shadows."

I am acquainted with the two ladies and feel that Tom did a good job of reporting. These ladies have overcome great odds and deserve public recognition. Too often society recognizes names instead of accomplishments.

Our thanks to Tom and The Star for recognizing these ladies and allowing readers the privilege of reading about it.

Harm Is Evidenced By 'Overreach'

WASHINGTON — Sometimes I feel that I am reading newspapers more but enjoying them less. That feeling usually coincides with the discovery of evidence of journalistic overreaching — a striving for impact that either strains the truth or breaks it.

The press, it seems, is determined to make its customers put down their coffee cups with trembling hands and say, "Oh, my God, they're at it again!" — "they" being those incorrigible occupants of the seats of power

My case history concerns the Washington Post, where I function as ombudsman and internal critic, and our old friend, Henry Kissinger. But it goes beyond the Post and Kissinger It illustrates the instinct for the jugular so fashionable in this business nowadays and some other press quirks as well

On April 6 the Post published on its front page a story headlined "Report Says Kissinger Got Kin HEW Job" The lead paragraph read.

"Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger forced the Office of Education to hire his brother-in-law, David Maginnes, even though there was no work for him to do, the Civil Service Commission said in a report released yesterday."

The story was wrong The CSC report did not say that Kissinger forced, or had anything to do with, the 1972 hiring of Maginnes — who, by the way, was not Kissinger's brother-in-law at the time

It did say that Maginnes was hired outside normal civil service procedures and quoted an official as saying that this "was widely recognized as a concession to the future brother-in-law of the cabinet officer "

The next day the Post published on Page Two a story that began this way: "Civil Service Commission Chairman Robert E. Hampton said yesterday there is no evidence to support an assertion published Tuesday in the Washington Post that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger 'forced the Office of Education to hire his brother-in-law, David Maginnes . . .' "

While fully reporting Hampton's statement that there was no evidence linking Kissinger to the hiring, the story did not say something that should have been clear to Post editors by then that the Tuesday story had been wrong

Moreover, the second story misstated the original story The original story did not assert that Kissinger forced the hiring, as the second story said. It asserted something quite different — that the Civil Service Commission said he forced it.

Thus, the thrust of the second story was not that Hampton was correcting the Post on a factual error, which he was. Rather he was put in the position of denying a charge against Kissinger by the Post itself, it was a bureaucrat against a newspaper.

In that situation, his statements sounded like the usual pro forma official denials of media disclosures, and the public was left to draw its own conclusions

This column is not written to embarrass the Post by spotlighting publication of an inaccurate story That has happened to every newspaper, and it will continue to happen in this imperfect, deadline-fraught business

The important thing is that the whole performance says some disturbing things about the news business

First, there is that instinct for the jugular. The CSC report contained material for a legitimate story on the hiring of Maginnes, as well as a number of other violations of Civil Service rules. But the Post took an extra — and erroneous — step. It said the CSC report attributed misbehavior to Henry Kissinger.

Scarcely a day goes by that there aren't detectable distortions in the press, print and broadcast, that grow out of such overreaching. It is as if we of the news business keep reminding ourselves "We are never going to be fooled again Therefore we are always going to put things in the worst possible light."

I find this disturbing because I think it is largely responsible for a deterioration in the public's trust of the media Second, I see in the handling of the Maginnes story a reflection of a reluctance in the news business to admit error Even accepting that the first story could have slipped through under deadline pressure, certainly Hampton's protest should have led to the discovery that the story was wrong

And yet in that long second story, the Post did not face up to the basic question Did the CSC make such a charge against Kissinger or didn't it?

Third, I think the Maginnes story reflects insistence in this business on being first with the news — even if it means avoiding the fact that we aren't first.

☆ ☆ ☆

A little history In 1974, Federal Times, a weekly newspaper for federal employes, reported improper hiring practices in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, of which the Office of Education is a part.

The Civil Service Commission investigated Its report was completed last July Federal Times got a copy and on February 16 it published a long story on it, leading with the Maginnes hiring (but not attributing it to direct pressure from Kissinger) The report was released on Capital Hill on April 5, which resulted in the Post story the next day

Nowhere in the Post story was there mention of this background, or of the Federal Times

The Post editors who handled the story agree that it was erroneous But they do not see it as evidence of the overreaching I referred to earlier Rather, they say, sloppy work was done. And they feel that the second story adequately dealt with the inaccuracy of the first. On both counts, I disagree.

Incumbency Has Drawbacks, Too

Ronald Reagan still stirs up his audiences with attacks on such villains as Henry Kissinger and the president of Panama. Those audiences who cheer such demagoguery comprise his hard-core support; they belong to him and would cheer whatever he said, no matter how it might bewilder the American mainstream.

Reagan's blustering, pushy jingoism, while it scares President Ford into talking out of the right side of his mouth more frequently, doesn't seem to be making much headway beyond Reagan's nucleus of faithful.

It is difficult for many people to believe that President Ford, who had spent a quarter century in Congress as a pal of the Pentagon, would let U.S. military preparedness slip to a dangerous level. Ford proudly claims that he has proposed the two highest military budgets in peacetime history. Indeed, while that may leave many people who have priorities different than overwhelming strategic superiority shaking their heads, it does blunt the Reagan argument.

On the issue of detente, Reagan, like many critics of detente, fails to understand what it is all about. There is more take in the give-and-take than readily meets the eye.

And in insisting that the U.S. hang on to the Panama Canal Zone lock, stock and barrel at all costs, that there is nothing to negotiate and in suggesting that Panama's "tin-horn dictator" go soak his head, Reagan reveals his unfitness to serve as president.

That "shove it to 'em" approach raises cheers on the stump, but when reality and responsibility are taken into account, altogether different courses of action are called for.

The Ford administration is taking reality into account in its negotiations on the Panama Canal. A failure on the part of this country to work out a new treaty would invite hostility toward us all over Latin America — an area to which we should be devoting much more careful attention.

The Reagan approach in dealing with the world, if given full play, could only isolate the U.S. and place the nation in such a weakened position that all the arms in the world could not keep us "Number One."

If Ford has the magic of the incumbency working for him in this primary election, Reagan has the luxury of being able to speak without the responsibility of having to act.

We don't believe that Reagan's foreign policy message will win majority approval in America. That is our hope at any rate.

A recent NBC poll shows Ford's popularity rating among Republicans on the increase and his foreign policy rating higher than Reagan's.

The crowds may cheer as Reagan takes pot shots at "tin-horn dictators", but that kind of target practice won't mean much in the long run.

Rush Job On Flu Shots

The mass inoculation program designed to combat an expected outbreak of the type of influenza that killed 20 million people around the world at the end of WWI was approved and funded this week.

President Ford signed a bill committing federal support in the amount of $135 million to the program which aims at having all Americans inoculated against swine flu by the end of the year.

There is still some professional resistance to the idea that a mass inoculation program is necessary. There have even been inferences by some health officials at the state level and by others that the anti-flu program is politically motivated. Such accusations in our opinion are meanspirited and uncalled for.

But the weight of professional opinion seems to be that the American public would benefit from protection against a possible epidemic; that there could be a considerable savings in human lives, especially among the very young, the old and the weak.

We applaud the decision to go forward with the program and take note of another salutary development in connection with it.

Congress, usually working at a turtle's pace, expedited the flu vaccine legislation at comparative breakneck speed.

It thus permitted itself a rare demonstration that Congress can sprint when the public's health and welfare is at stake.

The only thing unfortunate about such demonstrations is the resulting public expectations.

Most legislative business, in reality, does not move along so smoothly.

Lincoln, Neb.

Congratulations for the fine investigative reporting on the kitchens at the penitentiary. If the Health Department knew the situation was the worst food-handling in Nebraska, why didn't they do something?

Or is this another scandalous example of bureaucratic cover-up?

Overcoming The Shadows

Lincoln, Neb.

I appreciated the March 31 story by Tom Cook: "Two Women Conquer Deaf, Blind Shadows."

I am acquainted with the two ladies and feel that Tom did a good job of reporting. These ladies have overcome great odds and deserve public recognition. Too often society recognizes names instead of accomplishments.

Our thanks to Tom and The Star for recognizing these ladies and allowing readers the privilege of reading about it.

Harm Is Evidenced By 'Overreach'

WASHINGTON — Sometimes I feel that I am reading newspapers more but enjoying them less. That feeling usually coincides with the discovery of evidence of journalistic overreaching — a striving for impact that either strains the truth or breaks it.

The press, it seems, is determined to make its customers put down their coffee cups with trembling hands and say, "Oh, my God, they're at it again!" — "they" being those incorrigible occupants of the seats of power.

My case history concerns the Washington Post, where I function as ombudsman and internal critic, and our old friend, Henry Kissinger. But it goes beyond the Post and Kissinger. It illustrates the instinct for the jugular so fashionable in this business nowadays and some other press quirks as well.

On April 6 the Post published on its front page a story headlined "Report Says Kissinger Got Kin HEW Job." The lead paragraph read:

"Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger forced the Office of Education to hire his brother-in-law, David Maginnes, even though there was no work for him to do, the Civil Service Commission said in a report released yesterday."

The story was wrong. The CSC report did not say that Kissinger forced, or had anything to do with, the 1972 hiring of Maginnes — who, by the way, was not Kissinger's brother-in-law at the time.

It did say that Maginnes was hired outside normal civil service procedures and quoted an official as saying that this "was widely recognized as a concession to the future brother-in-law of the cabinet officer."

The next day the Post published on Page Two a story that began this way: "Civil Service Commission Chairman Robert E. Hampton said yesterday there is no evidence to support an assertion published Tuesday in the Washington Post that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger 'forced the Office of Education to hire his brother-in-law, David Maginnes . . .' "

While fully reporting Hampton's statement that there was no evidence linking Kissinger to the hiring, the story did not say something that should have been clear to Post editors by then: that the Tuesday story had been wrong.

Moreover, the second story misstated the original story. The original story did not assert that Kissinger forced the hiring, as the second story said. It asserted something quite different — that the Civil Service Commission said he forced it.

Thus, the thrust of the second story was not that Hampton was correcting the Post on a factual error, which he was. Rather he was put in the position of denying a charge against Kissinger by the Post itself; it was a bureaucrat against a newspaper.

In that situation, his statements sounded like the usual pro forma official denials of media disclosures, and the public was left to draw its own conclusions.

☆ ☆ ☆

This column is not written to embarrass the Post by spotlighting publication of an inaccurate story. That has happened to every newspaper, and it will continue to happen in this imperfect, deadline-fraught business.

The important thing is that the whole performance says some disturbing things about the news business.

First, there is that instinct for the jugular. The CSC report contained material for a legitimate story on the hiring of Maginnes, as well as a number of other violations of Civil Service rules. But the Post took an extra — and erroneous — step. It said the CSC report attributed misbehavior to Henry Kissinger.

Scarcely a day goes by that there aren't detectable distortions in the press, print and broadcast, that grow out of such overreaching. It is as if we of the news business keep reminding ourselves: "We are never going to be fooled again. Therefore we are always going to put things in the worst possible light."

I find this disturbing because I think it is largely responsible for a deterioration in the public's trust of the media. Second, I see in the handling of the Maginnes story a reflection of a reluctance in the news business to admit error. Even accepting that the first story could have slipped through under deadline pressure, certainly Hampton's protest should have led to the discovery that the story was wrong.

And yet in that long second story, the Post did not face up to the basic question: Did the CSC make such a charge against Kissinger or didn't it?

Third, I think the Maginnes story reflects insistence in this business on being first with the news — even if it means avoiding the fact that we aren't first.

☆ ☆ ☆

A little history: In 1974, Federal Times, a weekly newspaper for federal employes, reported improper hiring practices in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, of which the Office of Education is a part.

The Civil Service Commission investigated. Its report was completed last July. Federal Times got a copy and on February 16 it published a long story on it, leading with the Maginnes hiring (but not attributing it to direct pressure from Kissinger). The report was released on Capital Hill on April 5, which resulted in the Post story the next day.

Nowhere in the Post story was there mention of this background, or of the Federal Times.

The Post editors who handled the story agree that it was erroneous. But they do not see it as evidence of the overreaching I referred to earlier. Rather, they say, sloppy work was done. And they feel that the second story adequately dealt with the inaccuracy of the first. On both counts, I disagree.

Coins Found In Peery's Haunts

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The prosecution produced testimony Friday that collector's coins were found in pop or cigarette machines in establishments frequented by Wesley H. Peery.

Peery is being tried for first degree murder in the shooting death of Marianne Mitzner and the robbery of the Mitzner Rare Coin Shop on June 6, 1975.

Lahners presented quarters witnesses said were taken from vending machines at the Villager Motel, 5200 O St., Matthew's Texaco, 48th and Leighton, and the Treasure City Gas Station, also at 48th and Leighton.

A coin dealer, William Williams of the Centennial Coin Shop, said the coins presented by Lahners ranged in grade from fine to uncirculated, "the type you would find in a coin store."

The coins came into police hands in late June and early July, according to testimony Friday.

Silver Quarters Found

Jackie Kuhns of the Treasure City gas station said she noticed silver quarters when she emptied the machines, as she does daily, in mid-June, 1975. Since then, silver quarters which have not been produced since 1964, have not appeared in the machines, she said.

Ms. Kuhns said she took the silver quarters home and put them in a frog coin bank. She turned them over to police when they inquired about the coins.

Peery was "an old customer" at the station, she said. She estimated he stopped there six times "over a couple of months."

Carr Gregg, of General Tobacco, testified he turned over seven quarters from a cigarette machine at Matthew's Texaco to police. A station employe, John Copf, testified Peery was a relatively frequent patron.

William H. Nelson, maintenance supervisor of the Villager Motel, testified he turned over 76 quarters over to police, and that some of them appeared very new.

Daughter Testifies

In testimony Thursday Christina Hall, the daughter of Peery's girlfriend, Mary Blazek, had testified about a time in late June in which Peery purchased perhaps 12 cans of pop at the Villager.

In other testimony Friday the president of a rag cutting and packaging company identified a rag found in the Mitzner Rare Coin Shop as one from his company.

He said his company, to his knowlege, is the only one specializing in that type of rag in the Midwest. He said only six or seven boxes of the rags have ever been sent to Lincoln, including one box to Nebraska Wesleyan University, where Peery worked in the maintenance department.

On a surprising note, Robert Allen, president of the company, asked that he not be made to reveal where his company obtained the material for its rags.

"Believe it or not there's a rag shortage in this country," Allen said. He said the source of rag material "is a secret in our business."

LES: Amendment Would Forestall Rise In Rates

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

If Lincoln voters turn down a charter amendment in May, they'll probably face an electric rate increase in June.

Lincoln Electric System (LES) Administrator Walt Canney said Friday that an amendment to eliminate LES's in lieu of tax payments would forestall a rate increase this summer and would lessen the blow of a planned rate increase next January.

The question on the ballot May 11 is whether city-owned LES should continue to make substitute tax payments to local government and the school district.

City officials say LES should keep the money. School district and county government officials take the opposite view, contending they'll be forced to raise property taxes to offset lost income

Payments Started In 1966

LES has been making in lieu of tax payments since 1966. Those payments were $452,548 ten years ago. this year they are estimated at $1.2 million. By 1984, those payments could top $6 million.

Until Friday the charter amendment hadn't been considered too earth-shattering by most people

Friday, Canney told the LES Administrative Board that LES really could use the money.

Because of higher bills to buy electricity, LES will pay out $1.1 million more than it had planned from January through August. If LES continues to pay its substitute tax payments, Canney predicted LES will have to ask the City Council for a rate hike six months sooner than expected.

If voters approve the amendment, Canney figured the city could wait until January to increase rates, as originally announced

Additionally, if the amendment is approved, the planned 6% rate hike in January will be less than that. However, there still will be some boost in electric bills.

Board member Larry Conneally said many rate payers would expect LES to lower rates if the amendment is approved Conneally said Lincolnites probably wouldn't be too happy with any kind of rate increase as a result.

Canney said higher fuel bills are eating up the revenues and LES has no control over what the Nebraska Public Power District charges Lincoln for wholesale electricity Those power bills consume 73% of LES's budget.

Board Chairman Tom Allman summed up the situation, saying, "I can see we're getting between a rock and a hard place again"

Alternate Proposed

An alternative to increasing electric bills in June was proposed by board member Betty McClendon who again suggested that LES levy a fuel adjustment clause

LES had been charging commercial and industrial customers a fuel clause and wanted to tack on a similar adjustment to residential customers The City Council not only vetoed that plan last summer, but axed the fuel adjustment clause for commercial and residential users.

Under such an arrangement, as the cost of fuel used to generate electricity increased or decreased that cost automatically was passed on to customers Most other utilities have a fuel adjustment clause.

The board will consider a fuel adjustment proposal at the May meeting.

LES Board Members Bicker Over Research Project Funds

It was an unusual sight at the Lincoln Electric System board meeting Friday. Board members were actually squabbling with each other.

The issue which erupted into a spirited mini-controversy was over how much money LES should send to the American Public Power Association (APPA) and how much it should keep for itself for local energy-related research projects.

The board had agreed to enroll in the Electric Power Research Institute, located in Palo Alto, Calif., for $152,326. The proposal was that LES send 10% of that amount to APPA to finance research projects across the country. APPA is the organization which gave Lincoln a grant to build the solar home south of Lincoln.

However, board members Betty McClendon and Keith Newhouse didn't think the money should be sent to APPA at all.

They said LES should let it be known that Lincoln would finance a local research project. They wanted to keep 20% of the money in Lincoln.

They said LES could finance research into wind power or a study of how higher rates affect demand for electricity or on buying an instrument to measure heat loss in homes.

Mrs. McClendon urged the board to start a thermogram project, which can help analyze where insulation is needed in a building.

Newhouse said he doesn't support wind power himself, but said "it is politically expedient to study it. There are still lots of places in Nebraska which could use wind power."

Other board members pointed out LES would only finance "bona fide" research projects and not just any project which came along.

The board split 4-to-4 on whether to keep 20%, some $30,465, for Lincoln. Since the proposal failed, the board then unanimously agreed to send 10% to APPA and keep 10% for Lincoln-based research projects.

In other business, Phil Michaels, LES power supply manager, said he hopes a team from LES and the city Public Works Department can be formed to iron out snags in proposals suggested in the recent solid waste study

One of the recommendations in the Parsons study suggests LES build a 400 megawatt power plant in Lancaster County, and for Lincoln to burn its garbage there.

Michaels noted the study called for two-day storage of the solid waste before processing. However, he said problems could arise if the power plant didn't operate to full capacity or if the plant was inoperable for some reason.

Michaels also said study is under way to determine whether water from the effluent at the new Northeast treatment plant can be used for cooling at the power plant.

LES also will begin monitoring air pollution in northeast Lincoln next week for a 20-day period.

The Cast Came Off And She Had Her Hand

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — When the cast came off, 14-year-old Lisa Stephens learned she could again use the hand that had been cut off in a car accident. She wiped tears from her eyes, trying in vain to hide the emotion.

"They said it was going to be good all along, that I was going to have a hand," she said.

"I just kind of kept my hopes up, and I've got my hand.

"I think they're beautiful, they are fantastic to put me back together like that and make it so I can keep it."

The spunky girl from Dayton, Ohio, described her feelings just a few minutes after learning that an operation to reimplant her right hand, severed and sewn back on two weeks before, had been successful.

"I feel fantastic," Lisa said, sniffling. "But I wasn't surprised."

She said she never doubted when Dr. Joseph Kutz told her: "Everything is going to be okay, Lisa." She was crying, she said, because she could not go home from the hospital that day.

Two weeks before, Lisa, her boyfriend and another friend were walking on a sidewalk near her home. She saw a car coming and tried to jump away. But it slammed her arm against a telephone pole and her right hand was cut off at the wrist.

Her friends put her hand in a paper bag. She was taken to Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton, then 145 miles south to Jewish Hospital here, which has a special unit for microscopic surgery.

Kutz, with Drs. Allen Vanbeck and Ti Min Tsai, sewed the hand back on in a 12-hour operation. Now, Kutz says, Lisa will have to remain at the hospital a few more days while more skin is grafted.

Kutz said the doctors at Jewish Hospital have "put on arms, fingers and have been doing them at a pretty substantial success rate. The success rate has been increasing in the last two or three years."

But the surgery is still unusual, he said. "We have one of only a few microsurgical units in the country. This is a unit by which we do this reimplantation and small vessel work through the aid of a microscope

. . . There is a need for more research grants, finances for this field of surgery. We've shown that reimplantation can be done."

Lisa's injury, he said, was "a very clean cut," and on her arrival the odds for successful surgery were about 60 per cent. Now, he said, the odds that he hand will be usable are about 95 per cent.

Lisa's right hand will never be completely normal, however, because nerves were permanently damaged. "With her age," Kutz said, "if she's lucky, she may have 50 per cent normal return as far as nerves are concerned, but this would just give her a little handicap." He said the slow rate at which nerves regenerate will prevent her from having feeling in the hand for eight months or more.

'Great Mail Robbery' Just Mistake

Los Angeles (UPI—The great mail robbery caper is over. A pouch containing $1.6 million in negotiable securities was not stolen from the mails after all.

It was just lost in a New York airline facility.

The pouch disappeared between Los Angeles and New York two weeks ago, sending postal inspectors on an urgent hunt. It had been sent by the Pacific Clearing Corp. To the Bradford National Clearing House in New York, and entrusted to a special overnight-delivery express mail service.

The Post Office in Los Angeles said the pouch vanished after it had been delivered to American Air Lines for delivery in New York.

Postal inspectors announced the pouch had been found — at the bottom of a container in the airline's New York cargo terminal, buried beneath other mail.

Spiegel Closing Omaha, Lincoln Catalog Stores

Nebraska Spiegel Co. customers will have to do their business by mail from now on because of the closing of Nebraska Spiegel catalog order stores in Omaha and Lincoln.

The Lincoln store at 2021 O St. closed Friday, one of 62 Spiegel stores closed nationwide this week.

Customers waiting for orders will receive them in the mail instead of picking them up at the stores, according to Barry Sutton, Omaha store supervisor. Sutton said customers of cash orders were notified in advance of the procedure.

The only Nebraska Spiegel stores were in Omaha and Lincoln. The stores were closed because of "rising overhead costs," according to a statement by Henry A. Johnson, Spiegel board chairman.

'Great Mail Robbery' Just Mistake

Los Angeles (UPI—The great mail robbery caper is over. A pouch containing $1.6 million in negotiable securities was not stolen from the mails after all.

It was just lost in a New York airline facility.

The pouch disappeared between Los Angeles and New York two weeks ago, sending postal inspectors on an urgent hunt. It had been sent by the Pacific Clearing Corp. To the Bradford National Clearing House in New York, and entrusted to a special overnight-delivery express mail service.

The Post Office in Los Angeles said the pouch vanished after it had been delivered to American Air Lines for delivery in New York.

Postal inspectors announced the pouch had been found — at the bottom of a container in the airline's New York cargo terminal, buried beneath other mail.

Libraries To Close On Easter

Easter Sunday Bennett Martin Public Library and all branches of the city library system will be closed.

Sheldon Art Gallery, the state Historical Society Museum and the State Capitol will be open their regular Sunday hours.

LAP Director Heads Region 7 Community Unit

Jesse Payne, executive director of the Lincoln Action Program, was elected Region 7 president of the National Association for Community Development during the association's twelfth annual conference in Washington.

Payne's responsibilities will include representing Region 7 (Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, and Kansas) at national meetings.

In addition, LAP board member Catarina Bautista was elected to the Region 7 board of directors and co-chairperson of the association's Hispania caucus.

Spiegel Closing Omaha, Lincoln Catalog Stores

Nebraska Spiegel Co. customers will have to do their business by mail from now on because of the closing of Nebraska Spiegel catalog order stores in Omaha and Lincoln.

The Lincoln store at 2021 O St. closed Friday, one of 62 Spiegel stores closed nationwide this week.

Customers waiting for orders will receive them in the mail instead of picking them up at the stores, according to Barry Sutton, Omaha store supervisor. Sutton said customers of cash orders were notified in advance of the procedure.

The only Nebraska Spiegel stores were in Omaha and Lincoln. The stores were closed because of "rising overhead costs," according to a statement by Henry A. Johnson, Spiegel board chairman.

New Policy Would Prevent Outside Work By Lawyers

By United Press International

The chairman of the Nebraska Public Service Commission said Friday he will propose Monday a staff policy that would prohibit commission attorneys from handling outside legal work in the office.

Chairman Duane Gay of Columbus said his decision to offer that proposal resulted from interviews Thursday of four commission attorneys who said they were handling outside legal work on commission time and were using a commission legal secretary.

The interviews, in turn, were prompted by a complaint from the legal secretary

"The problem is that the commission has never formally set a staff rule on this," Gay said

He said during the interviews the four attorneys said they understood they were allowed to do outside work on commission time if they had finished their regular work. That, said Gay, "was a misunderstanding" of the situation and should have been headed off some time ago by a formal staff policy. He also said the four indicated they were not actively soliciting outside legal work

To clear up the situation, the commissioner said, "I'm going to propose that they should not in any way, shape or form do any outside legal work during business hours."

Gay said he had no objections to work done outside regular hours.

He also said from the interviews he was satisfied "commission work took priority and that the commission has not suffered" because of the outside work done in the past.

Initially, the Thursday questioning of Adrian Fiala, Jack Finnigan, John Ragsdale and Paul Krats was to take place behind closed doors.

Gay said he felt the whole situation was "an internal thing" but said it was later decided to open the interviews to the news media. "There were no accusations made or anything like that. It was just something that came up which we feel has to be corrected," the commissioner said

Everett Green, commission secretary, also released the salaries made by the four attorneys. Fiala makes $14,640, Finnigan, $16,596, Ragsdale, $13,500, Kratz, $10,500.

Elgin Native Named One Of 3M Officers

Norfolk (AP) — The man who heads domestic operations for the 3M Co. of Minnesota has become a familiar figure at the Norfolk Airport.

But not because 3M has located a plant here.

Lewis W. Lehr is a native of Elgin and frequent visitor to his elderly mother who resides in Albion.

Lehr was chosen as one of two 3M presidents at the November meeting of the corporation's board of directors. James Thwaits is company president in charge of international operations and both are accountable to the president of the board.

A chemical engineering graduate of the University of Nebraska, Lehr joined 3M, then known as Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, in 1947.

One factor in choosing that firm over one in Pennsylvania, Lehr admits, was the good fishing in Minnesota.

Lewis W. Lehr

Lehr was instrumental in putting 3M into the health care products field, including development of a medical products laboratory. He became manager of that division when it was formed in 1962 and was named group vice president of tape and allied products in 1974.

Lehr is married to the former Doris Stauder of McCook and the couple has four children.

Anderson Backs Jackson

State Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell announced Friday that he will be the state coordinator for Nebraska's Jackson for President Committee.

Anderson said Washington Sen. Henry Jackson is by far his first choice for president from among the field of remaining Democratic presidential contenders.

The job as coordinator will require most of his time from now through the primary, he said.

Anderson earlier had expressed support for Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh for president; nowever, Bayh bowed out in an earlier primary.

PSC Hopeful Decries Rise In Phone Bill

Joyce Durand of Lincoln, a Democratic hopeful for the Public Service Commission, Friday decried the inflationary spiral of telephone bills in Nebraska.

"Utility bill increases have become so commonplace that few people notice until the family checkbook doesn't balance," she said.

"Fewer still are aware that the $5.27 million increase recently granted Northwestern Bell will affect all Nebraska telephone users through a statewide increase in long distance rates."

Mrs. Durand, commission budget officer, also criticized a hike in the cost of an unlisted telephone number.

"How in the world can telephone companies justify a $1 charge to not provide information?" she asked.

She called on the commission to "put to work for the rate payer and the taxpayer the statutory powers granted it by the people of Nebraska."

Mrs. Durand is running for the Democratic nomination in the commission's 1st District. Her primary election opponent is former Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf.

Conservatives Praise Record Of McCollister

Washington (AP) — The American Conservative Union (ACU) has commended the voting record of Rep. John Y. McCollister, R-Neb.

The group cited the Omaha lawmaker for his votes to "stem inflation by cutting excessive government spending, reduce the federal bureaucracy, and strengthen national defense."

McCollister received a 91% conservative rating.

Public Job Program Funds Extended

Kansas City (AP) — State and local governments in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska have been allocated more than $21 million to keep public service job programs funded for the remainder of 1976, the Labor Department announced Friday.

The allocation is part of an $81.2-billion appropriation signed Thursday by President Ford to forestall layoffs of some federally subsidized workers.

The funds were appropriated under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, which provides funds to major areas with unemployment rates of more than 6.5%. The Labor Department said some CETA sponsors were about to exhaust their funds and the new allocation will permit extension of the programs through January 1977.

Nebraska will receive $2,529,105 of the total allocation. In a breakdown of Nebraska funds, Omaha will get $2,143,901, Lincoln $136,906, with the balance of the state receiving $248,298.

Wrong Person Named In Story

A Friday story in the Lincoln Star incorrectly attributed comments at the Thursday afternoon Lincoln City Libraries board of directors meeting to City Councilman John Robinson.

Ronald Piggee, not Robinson, is the member of the board's buildings and grounds committee who made a report on study of recycling center use of Gere Library's grounds.

Jack Ford Sets Lincoln Visit

Lexington (UPI) — President Ford's son, Jack, is scheduled to visit Lincoln on April 23.

William Barrett, Nebraska President Ford Committee chairman, said young Ford will visit Lincoln area colleges and the University of Nebraska.

Barrett said no other details on the visit were yet available.

The White House has said President Ford plans to visit the Cornhusker state the first week in May to campaign for the May 11 all-star presidential primary.

Kinsey Against Unneeded Rules

Lincoln legislative candidate Sandra Kinsey Friday said state government must avoid creating a bureaucracy similar to that in the federal government.

All state programs and expenditures should be "continually assessed and reassessed to guard against unnecessary and burdensome rules, regulations and red tape," the 29th District candidate said.

Farwell Heads Humboldt Jaycees

Gering Population Up 18.7%

Gering (AP) — Preliminary figures from a special census indicate that Gering has 1,005 more residents than it had in 1970. U.S. Bureau of Census workers completed a special enumeration requested by the Gering City Council and the preliminary report said the population now is 6,674. That would be an 18.7% increase over the official 1970 census figure of 5,639.

Petersburg, St. Helena Schools Cited

Chicago (AP) — Two more Nebraska schools have received special awards for their participation in a national school lunch project honoring the nation's 200th birthday. "WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Psalms 2 and Acts 4:25

Matthew 9:36-38 reads: "WHEN HE (JESUS) SAW THE MULTITUDES, HE WAS MOVED WITH COMPASSION ON THEM, BECAUSE THEY FAINTED, AND WERE SCATTERED ABROAD AS SHEEP HAVING NO SHEPHERD. THEN SAID HE UNTO HIS DISCIPLES, THE HARVEST TRULY IS PLENTEOUS BUT THE LABORERS ARE FEW; PRAY YE THEREFORE THE LORD OF THE HARVEST THAT HE WILL SEND FORTH LABORERS INTO HIS HARVEST."

"THE HARVEST IS PLENTEOUS BUT THE LABORERS ARE FEW!" When Jesus said that "the woods were full" of Levites, Priests, Scribes, Doctors, Teachers, Divines, etc. But most of these divines had become DRY VINES, and many of the doctors were DOCTORS OF DARKNESS Read what HE told them about their condition in the 23rd of Matthew — they were so outraged that they managed to get Him crucified! The 23rd chapter of Jeremiah is somewhat like the 23rd of Matthew where about 600 years before God had warned the spiritual leaders of their corrupt condition. Also, about 700 years before He had warned them by His servant Isaiah, chapter 56:10, 11: "HIS WATCHMEN ARE BLIND THEY ARE ALL IGNORANT, THEY ARE ALL DUMB DOGS, THEY CANNOT BARK, SLEEPING, LYING DOWN, LOVING TO SLUMBER YEA, THEY ARE GREEDY DOGS WHICH CAN NEVER HAVE ENOUGH, AND THEY ARE SHEPHERDS THAT CANNOT UNDERSTAND THEY ALL LOOK THEIR OWN WAY, EVERY ONE FOR HIS GAIN, FROM HIS QUARTER " — Note in this passage D.D means "dumb dogs that cannot bark!"

We have heard of those who can so imitate the 'caw' of the crow that they deceive the crows, cause them to believe a lie and think maybe their Bishop Cardinal or Pope is calling them to a great Convocation for Revival! So they flock to the place of the call and are slaughtered wholesale by the guns of probably 'sons of guns' if they are doing it just for sport. However, to try to philosophize on such a tragedy, maybe the citizens of some crow city have become overmuch wicked in destroying the corn crops, and for that reason God permitted them to "believe a lie and be damned!" Did you know the Bible says God will send such a judgment upon men who reject His Word of Truth and "have pleasure in unrighteousness?" — 2nd Thessalonians 2:11, 12. "Not one sparrow falls to the ground without your Heavenly Father," said Jesus Surely this applies to the crow, and no doubt God causes the good crows to escape, or to be absent and fail to attend the tragic convocation, or revival!

God asks us this question: "Who makes thee to differ from another, and what hast thou that thou did not receive?" If we are true Christians hating evil, apostacy, and hypocrisy, we should remember that it is the mercy of God that has delivered us and made us to differ from the ungodly and that his blessing has been received from God "BY HIS GRACE THROUGH FAITH." This should not make us proud, rather humble, and stir us up to work, testify, and pray that the Dry Vines might receive Life and bear much fruit; that the Doctors of Darkness might become Doctors of "The Light of The World", Blind Watchmen might have sight restored, cease to be ignorant, dogs not dumb but capable of barking and warning of the "thief climbing up some other way and not entering by the Door, Christ Jesus, and quit sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber!"

True Protestantism believes in the "Priesthood of the Believer." If you consider yourself a "Priestly Believer " in view of the wickedness, evil shame, crime, etc., on every hand can you face the fact of these conditions without shame and sorrow when God says

"BUT IF THEY HAD STOOD IN MY COUNSEL, AND HAD CAUSED MY PEOPLE TO HEAR MY WORDS, THEN THEY SHOULD HAVE TURNED THEM FROM THEIR EVIL WAY, AND FROM THE EVIL OF THEIR DOINGS!" Jer 23 22

Co-Pastors Will Receive Award

Grand Island — The Rev. Dave McMahill and his wife, the Rev. Jane McMahill, will receive the Distinguished Alumni Award next week from Chicago Theological Seminary. The McMahills are the youngest ministers to receive the award and the first husband-wife team to be designated for the honor. The couple are co-pastors of the United Church of Christ in Grand Island and Ravenna.

Farwell Heads Humboldt Jaycees

Gering Population Up 18.7%

Gering (AP) — Preliminary figures from a special census indicate that Gering has 1,005 more residents than it had in 1970. U.S. Bureau of Census workers completed a special enumeration requested by the Gering City Council and the preliminary report said the population now is 6,674. That would be an 18.7% increase over the official 1970 census figure of 5,639.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

Psalms 2 and Acts 4:25

Matthew 9:36-38 reads: "WHEN HE (JESUS) SAW THE MULTITUDES, HE WAS MOVED WITH COMPASSION ON THEM, BECAUSE THEY FAINTED, AND WERE SCATTERED ABROAD AS SHEEP HAVING NO SHEPHERD. THEN SAID HE UNTO HIS DISCIPLES, THE HARVEST TRULY IS PLENTEOUS BUT THE LABORERS ARE FEW: PRAY YE THEREFORE THE LORD OF THE HARVEST THAT HE WILL SEND FORTH LABORERS INTO HIS HARVEST."

"THE HARVEST IS PLENTEOUS BUT THE LABORERS ARE FEW!" When Jesus said that "the woods were full" of Levites, Priests, Scribes, Doctors, Teachers, Divines, etc. But most of these divines had become DRY VINES, and many of the doctors were DOCTORS OF DARKNESS. Read what HE told them about their condition in the 23rd of Matthew — they were so outraged that they managed to get Him crucified! The 23rd chapter of Jeremiah is somewhat like the 23rd of Matthew, where about 600 years before God had warned the spiritual leaders of their corrupt condition. Also, about 700 years before He had warned them by His servant Isaiah, chapter 56:10, 11: "HIS WATCHMEN ARE BLIND: THEY ARE ALL IGNORANT, THEY ARE ALL DUMB DOGS, THEY CANNOT BARK; SLEEPING, LYING DOWN, LOVING TO SLUMBER. YEA, THEY ARE GREEDY DOGS WHICH CAN NEVER HAVE ENOUGH, AND THEY ARE SHEPHERDS THAT CANNOT UNDERSTAND: THEY ALL LOOK THEIR OWN WAY, EVERY ONE FOR HIS GAIN, FROM HIS QUARTER." — Note in this passage D.D. means "dumb dogs that cannot bark!"

We have heard of those who can so imitate the "caw" of the crow that they deceive the crows, cause them to believe a lie and think maybe their Bishop, Cardinal or Pope is calling them to a great Convocation for Revival! So they flock to the place of the call and are slaughtered wholesale by the guns of probably "sons of guns" if they are doing it just for sport. However, to try to philosophize on such a tragedy, maybe the citizens of some crow city have become overmuch wicked in destroying the corn crops, and for that reason God permitted them to "believe a lie and be damned!" Did you know the Bible says God will send such a judgment upon men who reject His Word of Truth and "have pleasure in unrighteousness?" — 2nd Thessalonians 2:11, 12. "Not one sparrow falls to the ground without your Heavenly Father," said Jesus. Surely this applies to the crow, and no doubt God causes the good crows to escape, or to be absent and fail to attend the tragic convocation, or revival!

God asks us this question: "Who makes thee to differ from another, and what hast thou that thou did not receive?" If we are true Christians hating evil, apostacy, and hypocrisy, we should remember that it is the mercy of God that has delivered us and made us to differ from the ungodly, and that his blessing has been received from God "BY HIS GRACE THROUGH FAITH." This should not make us proud, rather humble, and stir us up to work, testify, and pray that the Dry Vines might receive Life and bear much fruit; that the Doctors of Darkness might become Doctors of "The Light of The World"; Blind Watchmen might have sight restored, cease to be ignorant, dogs not dumb but capable of barking and warning of the "thief climbing up some other way and not entering by the Door, Christ Jesus; and quit sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber!"

True Protestantism believes in the "Priesthood of the Believer." If you consider yourself a "Priestly Believer," in view of the wickedness, evil, shame, crime, etc., on every hand, can you face the fact of these conditions without shame and sorrow when God says:

"BUT IF THEY HAD STOOD IN MY COUNSEL, AND HAD CAUSED MY PEOPLE TO HEAR MY WORDS, THEN THEY SHOULD HAVE TURNED THEM FROM THEIR EVIL WAY, AND FROM THE EVIL OF THEIR DOINGS!" Jer. 23:22.

Labor Union May Try Lottery

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha labor union is the latest with aspiring hopes to sponsor a new city lottery, and the start-up target date is April 29.

Omaha attorney David L. Weinberg, representing Laborers Union Local 1140, has met with Douglas County and state legal officials to discuss the lottery idea.

The union is affiliated with the 1140 Boxing Club, an athletics promotion group that would sponsor the lottery if it qualifies as a civic betterment group.

County Atty. Donald Knowles said Weinberg wanted to find out what legal action would be taken if a new lottery opens.

Leonard Schaefer, a union official, would serve as the director of the lottery, Knowles said.

Knowles said Weinberg was told that the proposed new lottery would resemble the old "Big Gold" and "Big Green" lotteries, which were ordered closed by Douglas County District Court Judge James Buckley about two months ago.

Buckley ruled that the operators of the old lotteries, City Betterment Corp., was formed with the primary function of running a lottery. As such, Buckley said the operation of the lotteries by City Betterment violated the intent of the state law which permits the operation of lotteries for civic betterment or charitable purposes.

City Betterment attorneys said Buckley's decision would likely be appealed to the State Supreme Court, but that action now appears unlikely because the time limit for an appeal has expired, according to a spokesman for the Attorney General's office in Lincoln.

Knowles said the tickets for the new lottery have already been printed and potential sellers have been contacted.

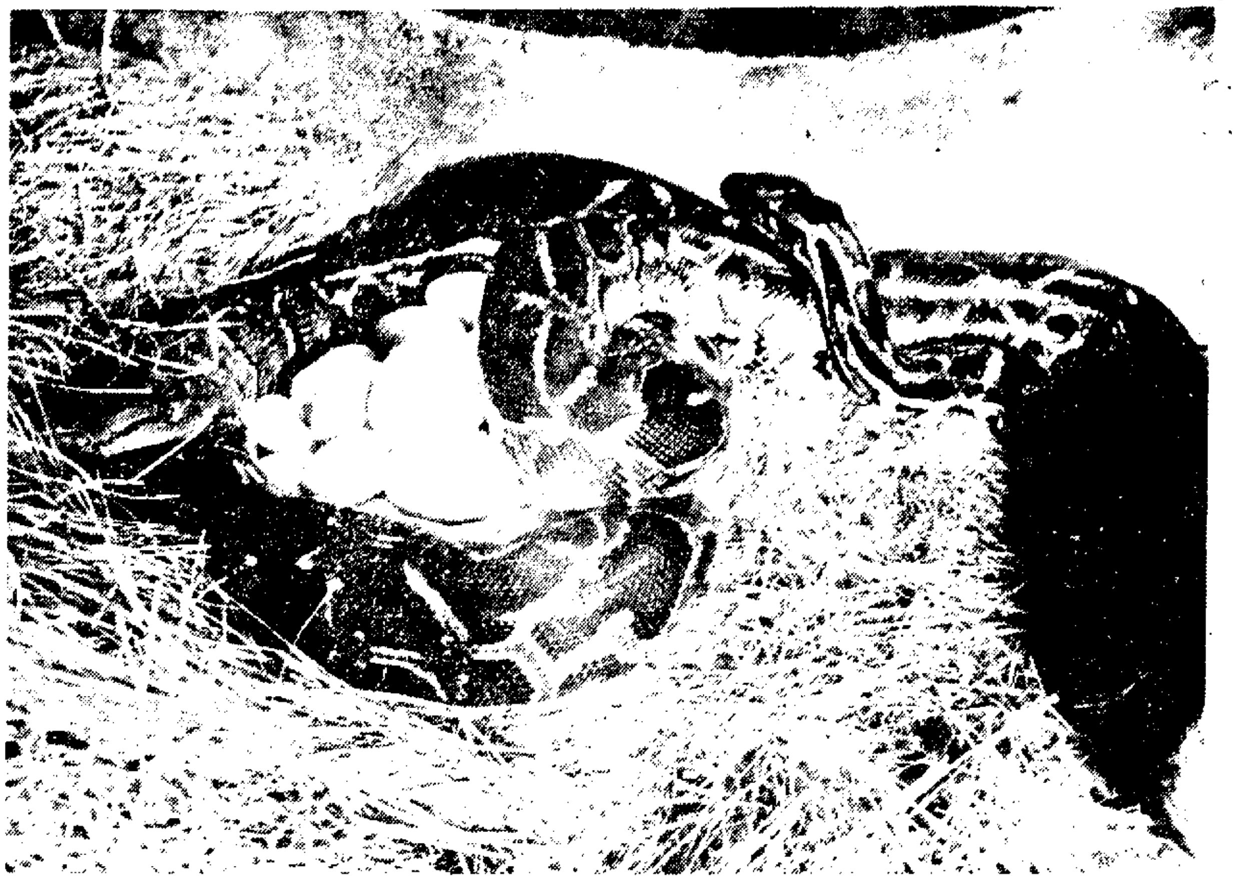
Quoting Schaefer, Knowles said the union has arrived at a contract with Downtown Omaha, Inc. Under the pact, Downtown Omaha, Inc., would be involved in deciding which civic projects would receive proceeds from the new lottery.

Milton Abrahams, an attorney representing both Downtown Omaha and City Betterment, said discussions are under way with a potential new operator, but that the terms are not settled.

Knowles said he advised Weinberg that legal action will be taken to determine whether the new lottery meets the requirements of the state lottery law.

However, no action will be taken until the new lottery starts.

If the lottery starts April 29, as proposed by Schaefer, then Knowles said he would immediately ask the Supreme Court for a declaratory judgment on the lottery's legal standing.



Seems Like A Good Place To Hunt Easter Eggs

Ager Memorial Zoo employes weren't hunting Easter eggs Friday morning, but they found about two dozen rather plain ones anyway. Then they noticed Puff, a Burmese python, was wrapped protectively around the pile. No one is certain whether Puff's eggs are fertile, said zoo employee Ken Broman, but "chances are good they are." If so, Huff, another python, is the likely father. The couple will know in 61-68 days. The eggs are in an incubator to keep temperature and humidity under control. (Star Photo)

Grain-Fed Cattle Inventories Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Feedlot operators have continued building up their inventories of grain-fed cattle, the kind which produce the choicest cuts of beef at supermarkets, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

As of April 1 there were nearly 10.9 million cattle being fattened for slaughter in 23 states surveyed, the department's Crop Reporting Board said. That was a 28% increase from fewer than 8.5 million feedlots on the same date last year.

However, the report showed, farmers and feedlot operators still have not recovered their momentum of two years ago. The April 1 inventory lagged the two-year-earlier mark of 12.3 million cattle by about 12%.

Department experts say that total beef supplies for the consumer market will continue above a year earlier levels for the remainder of 1976. However, more of the beef this year will come from grain-fed cattle while beef from leaner, lower grade animals probabably will decline. Last year, as producers tried to conserve expensive grain, there was more of the lower grade beef.

The report showed that during the first three months of this year feedlots marketed about 6.35 million head, up 15% from the first quarter of 1975. The January-March sales also exceeded USDA's earlier expectation that 6.2 million cattle would be marketed during the last quarter.

The report showed that feedlots in the 23 states also received nearly 5.4 million head of cattle for fattening and later sale during the first quarter, a gain of 14% from a year earlier.

Feedlot inventories in the 23 states as of April 1 and their percentage of year earlier inventories included:

Arizona, 422,000 head on April 1 and 128% of a year earlier; California, 753,000 and 157; Colorado, 845,000 and 123; Idaho, 150,000 and 95; Illinois, 590,000 and 118; Indiana, 245,000 and 107; Iowa, 1,420,000 and 122; Kansas, 1,200,000 and 140; Michigan 205,000 and 114; Minnesota, 390,000 and 120; Missouri, 210,000 and 120; Montana, 63,000 and 102; Nebraska, 1,210,000 and 126; New Mexico, 163,000 and 137; North Dakota, 29,000 and 94; Ohio, 270,000 and 113; Oklahoma, 284,000 and 137; Oregon, 67,000 and 122; Pennsylvania, 80,000 and 108; South Dakota, 320,000 and 119; Texas, 1,675,000 and 149; Washington, 159,000 and 135 and Wisconsin, 122,000 and 98.

State Cattle Figures Up

Nebraska cattle feeders were fattening 1,210,000 cattle for slaughter market April 1, up 26% from last year but down 12% from two years ago, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

During the January-March quarter, Nebraska feeders marketed 885,000 fat cattle, up 17% from the corresponding period last year but down 2% from two years ago. Placements during this same period amounted to 721,000, a 24% increase from last year but 10% below two years earlier.

Feeders intend to market 850,000 fed cattle in the April-June quarter, 18% more than last year's low marketings, the division said.

Wood River Holds Auction For Doctors

Wood River (UPI) — An auction of antiques and livestock will be held April 24 to collect funds to help pay the expenses of obtaining two doctors for this community of 1,100, including a Vietnamese refugee doctor.

Proceeds from the doctors fund community auction will go to the Wood River Medical Improvement Association to help complete a fund drive for $10,000.

Wood River has been without a doctor for 18 years. During the past three years, the community has paid tuition and living expenses for a medical student attending medical school.

Last May, the community voted to sponsor a Vietnamese doctor, Dr. Ngyen Ngoc A Bay, who was the commander of his country's army medical corps for eight years and a member of the South Vietnam House of Representatives.

Bill Luehr, chairman of the funding raising auction, said the medical student and Dr. A Bay will eventually set up practice in Wood River.

More than $27,000 has been contributed by area residents during the past three years, and the Wood River Medical Improvement Association says another $10,000 will be needed to complete the commitment.

Area farmers have donated livestock and groceries, furniture, a car, farm services and equipment, antique jewelry and other items for the auction.

Ex-Detective Waives Hearing

Omaha (AP) — Former Omaha police detective Robert Lickert waived a preliminary hearing Friday and was bound over for trial in Douglas County District Court on charges of conspiracy to commit murder.

Lickert, 52, who now owns and operates a security company, was an unsuccessful candidate for Douglas County sheriff in 1974.

He was arrested last week.

Authorities allege that Lickert hired a gunman to kill another Omaha man, and that he actually made partial payments on the "contract."

Lickert allegedly hired the gunman to killl Leonard Gass, a former Omaha policeman and convicted gambler. Lickert allegedly wanted Gass dead because he was a potential witness in a federal gambling trial here, and because he knew of Lickert's gambling debts.

Gass and the man that Lickert allegedly hired to kill Gass cooperated with authorities in the investigation which led to Lickert's arrest.

During his appearance in Municipal Court Friday, Lickert pleaded innocent to the charges, and he remains free on $20,000 bond.

No dates for future court proceedings were set.

Concern Over State Wheat Crop Increasing, Plant Specialist Says

Concern over the condition of this season's winter wheat crop in Nebraska is increasing, according to Dr. John Watkins, Extension plant pathologist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

He said the UNL plant disease diagnostic laboratory is receiving a great many telephone calls and plant samples from wheat growers.

The dead and dying plants are due primarily to a crown and root rot disease caused by the relatively dry, open weather conditions this past fall and winter, Watkins stated.

"Individual fields may contain scattered pockets of dead and dying plants or symptoms may be uniform over much of the field," Watkins said. "Areas of infected wheat appear brown in contrast to the new green growth of healthy plants. Plants with severe root and crown rot are slower to initiate growth if they are not already killed.

"To diagnose the disease, the root and crown areas of suspected seedlings should be washed and examined. Dark brown to purple spots of variable size and distribution are present on diseased roots.

"The crowns at the base of the plant should be split with a sharp knife to detect rot. Diseased crowns are brown to dark brown instead of white like those of healthy crowns. Wheat crowns will be rotted to a greater or lesser degree, depending upon stage of disease development."

"Even though many areas of the state received some moisture this spring, much of the damage was done last fall and winter. As a result, some of the fields are not responding to the spring moisture either due to severe root and crown rot or winter kill or a combination of both," Watkins added.

Officials Close Probe Of Death Of Iowa Boy, 5

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — The investigation into the disappearance and death of Oliver Todd Bernhardt, 5, has been closed officially, officials said Friday.

Chief of Police Nick Sulentic said there is no reason to suspect anything but an accident. The boy's body was found near Brownville, Neb., in the Missouri Riber.

The boy was reported missing about two months ago and his body was found last Friday.

Omahan Killed In Council Bluffs Glider Accident

Council Bluffs (AP) — An Omaha man was killed Friday evening in the crash of his hang glider in southeast Council Bluffs.

James P. North, 23, was pronounced dead about an hour after he was taken to a hospital.

A spokesman at the hospital said North, a student at Iowa Western Community College in Council Bluffs, apparently died of massive internal injuries. An autopsy was ordered.

Omaha Officer Died Of Illness

Omaha (AP) — Autopsy results have revealed that Omaha police officer David M. Donahue, 25, whose body was found outside his home last Sunday, died of pneumonia, according to Acting Douglas County Coronoer James Keenan.

Help Asked For Ex-Wilson Workers

State Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood Friday asked Gov. J. James Exon and other state officials to intervene on behalf of former Wilson & Co. employes in Omaha who Schmit said are being denied equal employment.

Schmit said in a prepared statement he asked for the help of Exon and State Labor Commissioner Gerald Chizek because he understood Wilson workers out of jobs now that the firm's operation has been closed in Omaha were being denied jobs by a new packing plant operation in Council Bluffs.

"If recent news stories are true, a new operation has refused to hire skilled employes in the hope of obtaining an on the job training grant from the federal government," the senator said.

REA Offering Disaster Loan

Washington (AP) — The Rural Electrification Administration is making an $87,000 low interest loan available to the South Central Public Power District headquartered at Nelson, Neb.

Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., said Friday the loan, at 2% interest, is to aid the district in repairing damage from last month's early spring storm.

Mrs. Smith said the low interest is being charged because of the low consumer density and low gross revenue per mile earned by the district.

State Cattle Figures Up

Nebraska cattle feeders were fattening 1,210,000 cattle for slaughter market April 1, up 26% from last year but down 12% from two years ago, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

During the January-March quarter, Nebraska feeders marketed 885,000 fat cattle, up 17% from the corresponding period last year but down 2% from two years ago. Placements during this same period amounted to 721,000, a 24% increase from last year but 10% below two years earlier.

Feeders intend to market 850,000 fed cattle in the April-June quarter, 18% more than last year's low marketings, the division said.

Concern Over State Wheat Crop Increasing, Plant Specialist Says

Concern over the condition of this season's winter wheat crop in Nebraska is increasing, according to Dr. John Watkins, Extension plant pathologist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

He said the UNL plant disease diagnostic laboratory is receiving a great many telephone calls and plant samples from wheat growers.

The dead and dying plants are due primarily to a crown and root rot disease caused by the relatively dry, open weather conditions this past fall and winter, Watkins stated.

"Individual fields may contain scattered pockets of dead and dying plants or symptoms may be uniform over much of the field," Watkins said. "Areas of infected wheat appear brown in contrast to the new green growth of healthy plants. Plants with severe root and crown rot are slower to initiate growth if they are not already killed.

"To diagnose the disease, the root and crown areas of suspected seedlings should be washed and examined. Dark brown to purple spots of variable size and distribution are present on diseased roots.

"The crowns at the base of the plant should be split with a sharp knife to detect rot. Diseased crowns are brown to dark brown instead of white like those of healthy crowns. Wheat crowns will be rotted to a greater or lesser degree, depending upon stage of disease development."

"Even though many areas of the state received some moisture this spring, much of the damage was done last fall and winter. As a result, some of the fields are not responding to the spring moisture either due to severe root and crown rot or winter kill or a combination of both," Watkins added.

Officials Close Probe Of Death Of Iowa Boy, 5

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — The investigation into the disappearance and death of Oliver Todd Bernhardt, 5, has been closed officially, officials said Friday.

Chief of Police Nick Sulentic said there is no reason to suspect anything but an accident. The boy's body was found near Brownville, Neb., in the Missouri Riber.

The boy was reported missing about two months ago and his body was found last Friday.

Omaha Officer Died Of Illness

Omaha (AP) — Autopsy results have revealed that Omaha police officer David M. Donahue, 25, whose body was found outside his home last Sunday, died of pneumonia, according to Acting Douglas County Coronoer James Keenan.

Omahan Killed In Council Bluffs Glider Accident

Council Bluffs (AP) — An Omaha man was killed Friday evening in the crash of his hang glider in southeast Council Bluffs.

James P. North, 23, was pronounced dead about an hour after he was taken to a hospital.

A spokesman at the hospital said North, a student at Iowa Western Community College in Council Bluffs, apparently died of massive internal injuries. An autopsy was ordered.

Wood River Holds Auction For Doctors

Wood River (UPI) — An auction of antiques and livestock will be held April 24 to collect funds to help pay the expenses of obtaining two doctors for this community of 1,100, including a Vietnamese refugee doctor.

Proceeds from the doctors fund community auction will go to the Wood River Medical Improvement Association to help complete a fund drive for $10,000.

Wood River has been without a doctor for 18 years. During the past three years, the community has paid tuition and living expenses for a medical student attending medical school.

Last May, the community voted to sponsor a Vietnamese doctor, Dr. Ngyen Ngoc A Bay, who was the commander of his country's army medical corps for eight years and a member of the South Vietnam House of Representatives.

Bill Luehr, chairman of the funding raising auction, said the medical student and Dr. A Bay will eventually set up practice in Wood River.

More than $27,000 has been contributed by area residents during the past three years, and the Wood River Medical Improvement Association says another $10,000 will be needed to complete the commitment.

Area farmers have donated livestock and groceries, furniture, a car, farm services and equipment, antique jewelry and other items for the auction.

Ex-Detective Waives Hearing

Omaha (AP) — Former Omaha police detective Robert Lickert waived a preliminary hearing Friday and was bound over for trial in Douglas County District Court on charges of conspiracy to commit murder.

Lickert, 52, who now owns and operates a security company, was an unsuccessful candidate for Douglas County sheriff in 1974.

He was arrested last week.

Authorities allege that Lickert hired a gunman to kill another Omaha man, and that he actually made partial payments on the "contract."

Lickert allegedly hired the gunman to killl Leonard Gass, a former Omaha policeman and convicted gambler. Lickert allegedly wanted Gass dead because he was a potential witness in a federal gambling trial here, and because he knew of Lickert's gambling debts.

Gass and the man that Lickert allegedly hired to kill Gass cooperated with authorities in the investigation which led to Lickert's arrest.

During his appearance in Municipal Court Friday, Lickert pleaded innocent to the charges, and he remains free on $20,000 bond.

No dates for future court proceedings were set.

Help Asked For Ex-Wilson Workers

State Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood Friday asked Gov. J. James Exon and other state officials to intervene on behalf of former Wilson & Co. employes in Omaha who Schmit said are being denied equal employment.

Schmit said in a prepared statement he asked for the help of Exon and State Labor Commissioner Gerald Chizek because he understood Wilson workers out of jobs now that the firm's operation has been closed in Omaha were being denied jobs by a new packing plant operation in Council Bluffs.

"If recent news stories are true, a new operation has refused to hire skilled employes in the hope of obtaining an on the job training grant from the federal government," the senator said.

REA Offering Disaster Loan

Washington (AP) — The Rural Electrification Administration is making an $87,000 low interest loan available to the South Central Public Power District headquartered at Nelson, Neb.

Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., said Friday the loan, at 2% interest, is to aid the district in repairing damage from last month's early spring storm.

Mrs. Smith said the low interest is being charged because of the low consumer density and low gross revenue per mile earned by the district.

Aid For Drug Crises

FIRST AID . . . Bates tapes ankle.

Story by Cynthia Johnson
Photos by Willis Van Sickle

The Drug Crisis Line telephone has been ringing on an average of 100 to 125 times per month since the Open Door Health Center took over the service last October.

And, based on records kept through this March, the drug problem in Lincoln "doesn't just involve 'street drugs,' " said Open Door Director Leslie Rutherford.

To the extent that Crisis Line calls can be used as an indicator of the drug situation in Lincoln, it appears that "as much of the problem is in middle-class suburbia," she said.

Manned by 35 community volunteers under the supervision of two VISTA representatives, the Drug Crisis Line operates 24 hours a day, providing emergency assistance during drug-related crises, and giving information about drugs.

Due to the volume of calls received on the Drug Crisis Line, a two-day Overdose Aid Training session was held for Open Door staff members and volunteers last week.

Designed to acquaint workers with drug emergency procedures, the session dealt with problems such as overdose, respiratory and cardiac depression, drug-induced shock, toxic psychosis, confusion, allergic reaction, convulsions and withdrawal states.

Drug emergency aid is a means of providing immediate, temporary assistance in a drug-related crisis, said Mr. Rutherford. If professional medical care is required, Open Door volunteers provide transportation to a hospital or call an ambulance.

Since Open Door assumed the operation of the Crisis Line, the percentage of calls involving the misuse of physician-prescribed drugs has been about equal to the percentage involving illegally-obtained or 'street'drugs, Ms. Rutherford said.

A recurring situation Crisis Line workers encounter is the misuse of prescribed barbiturates by middle class housewives, Ms. Rutherford said. One woman caller indicated she got prescriptions from four different doctors.

Broken down on the basis of sex and marital status, the calls indicate that women use the Crisis Line about twice as often as men; single persons about twice as often as married persons. Approximately 90% of the calls have been made by Caucasians.

These statistics don't necessarily mean that white, single women have the worst drug problem — only that they are most likely to use the line, Ms. Rutherford said.

Stimulants and depressants (such as diet pills, Librium and Valium) lead the list of drugs used by callers. The second most frequently encountered are cannabis derivitives (hashish, marijuana), followed by narcotics (hard drugs such as heroin) and alcohol.

A number of calls have involved the use of helium, lithium, antibiotics and inhalants.

Crisis Line volunteers also have taken calls from people suffering from loneliness and depression.

Most Crisis Line callers have questions or problems relating to themselves, Ms. Rutherford said. However, people also call in about friends' problems; and parents call to inquire about their children and drugs.

All Crisis Line calls are kept confidential, Ms. Rutherford said — names being requested only if necessary.

Open Door also provides 24-hour-a-day assistance to "walk-in" clients who come directly to the center at 2545 R.

Initially, the Crisis Line was operated by Full Circle, a drug rehabilitation center. Open Door took over the line so the staff at Full Circle could concentrate on rehabilitation.

The Drug Crisis Line number, listed inside the front cover of the Lincoln Telephone Directory, is 475-5683.

Let Daughter Catch Her Own Husband

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My beautiful 24-year-old daughter is ruining her life. She refuses to listen to me because she thinks that I'm old-fashioned.

She would like to get married, but she comes on so strong she scares all the men away. She is into this Women's Lib thing and doesn't believe in waiting for a man to call her. If she wants to go out with him, she calls him up. She even takes her own car and brags that she picked up the check!

Abby, this daughter has a college degree, is beautiful and has a 36 D bust. (That's another problem. Some stupid saleslady told her, "If you got it, flaunt it," so now everything she owns has a plunging neckline.)

If she doesn't quit coming on like the U.S. Marines, she will never get a man.

How can I convince her that she is going about it all wrong, and if she wants to get married, she will have to play hard to get and be more ladylike?

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I know you mean well, but there is nothing you can do to help your daughter get a man. Let her be herself, and one of the days she will find a man who likes aggressive, honest girl who doesn't play games.

DEAR ABBY: My love (whom we'll call "Janis") is half my age, has somewhat of a past, but says things like, "We should always be honest with each other." But the other day she came to me with the tale that her 90-year-old grandmother in Detroit is ailing, that she'd have to fly there for a week to be with her and that she'd write or phone me.

She never wrote or called. And she stayed two weeks.

No sooner had her plane been airborne, Dear Abby, that I found out through friends at the terminal that Janis didn't go to Detroit — she went to San Francisco where she has an old boyfriend.

I also found out that she had told her employer that she was going to Florida.

So what do I do? Confront her, punch her lying mouth or gently drop her and in so doing give up the nicest thing that's happened to me in a long time?

PETE

DEAR PETE: In light of her "we should always be honest to each other" preachment, confront her. And then drop her — unless you want a "love" with a lying mouth.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROGER: People who live in glass houses shouldn't get stoned.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigal Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed stamped (26c) envelope.

Opening lead - king of spades

If you look at all four hands, it seems that declarer must go down one. He has a trump loser, a diamond loser and two club losers.

But South made four hearts, and he did so in quite a simple way. He won the spade lead with the ace, ruffed a spade, and played a low diamond. East won with the eight and returned a trump.

Declarer went up with the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy with the ten, and ruffed another spade. Then, after cashing the K-Q of trumps and learning that West had a trump trick coming, he played a club to the ace and ruffed dummy's last spade.

As a result, South accumulated ten tricks. He scored the ace of spades, three spade ruffs in his hand, the A-K-Q of trumps, the ace of diamonds, a diamond ruff in dummy, and the ace of clubs.

When the play is analyzed, it can be seen that the key move was the spade ruff at trick two. Without this ruff, South would have lost the four tricks he seemed destined to lose.

The early spade ruff was part of a long-range plan to cover the possibility of finding the trumps divided 4-1. Trumping a spade at trick two was unlikely to do any harm, but at the same time it had the enormous advantage of protecting the contract if anything went wrong in trumps.

It may seem odd that South wound up making ten tricks despite his four losers, but this anomaly is not really uncommon in hands where declarer does a lot of ruffing. In such hands one does best, in the long run, by counting winners instead of losers.

Let Daughter Catch Her Own Husband

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My beautiful 24-year-old daughter is ruining her life. She refuses to listen to me because she thinks that I'm old-fashioned.

She would like to get married, but she comes on so strong she scares all the men away. She is into this Women's Lib thing and doesn't believe in waiting for a man to call her. If she wants to go out with him, she calls him up. She even takes her own car and brags that she picked up the check!

Abby, this daughter has a college degree, is beautiful and has a 36 D bust. (That's another problem. Some stupid saleslady told her, "If you got it, flaunt it," so now everything she owns has a plunging neckline.)

If she doesn't quit coming on like the U.S. Marines, she will never get a man.

How can I convince her that she is going about it all wrong, and if she wants to get married, she will have to play hard to get and be more ladylike?

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I know you mean well, but there is nothing you can do to help your daughter get a man. Let her be herself, and one of the days she will find a man who likes aggressive, honest girl who doesn't play games.

DEAR ABBY: My love (whom we'll call "Janis") is half my age, has somewhat of a past, but says things like, "We should always be honest with each other." But the other day she came to me with the tale that her 90-year-old grandmother in Detroit is ailing, that she'd have to fly there for a week to be with her and that she'd write or phone me.

She never wrote or called. And she stayed two weeks.

No sooner had her plane been airborne, Dear Abby, that I found out through friends at the terminal that Janis didn't go to Detroit — she went to San Francisco where she has an old boyfriend.

I also found out that she had told her employer that she was going to Florida.

So what do I do? Confront her, punch her lying mouth or gently drop her and in so doing give up the nicest thing that's happened to me in a long time?

PETE

DEAR PETE: In light of her "we should always be honest to each other" preachment, confront her. And then drop her — unless you want a "love" with a lying mouth.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROGER: People who live in glass houses shouldn't get stoned.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigal Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed stamped (26¢) envelope.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

Opening lead - king of spades.

If you look at all four hands, it seems that declarer must go down one. He has a trump loser, a diamond loser and two club losers.

But South made four hearts, and he did so in quite a simple way. He won the spade lead with the ace, ruffed a spade, and played a low diamond. East won with the eight and returned a trump.

Declarer went up with the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy with the ten, and ruffed another spade. Then, after cashing the K-Q of trumps and learning that West had a trump trick coming, he played a club to the ace and ruffed dummy's last spade.

As a result, South accumulated ten tricks. He scored the ace of spades, three spade ruffs in his hand, the A-K-Q of trumps, the ace of diamonds, a diamond ruff in dummy, and the ace of clubs.

When the play is analyzed, it can be seen that the key move was the spade ruff at trick two. Without this ruff, South would have lost the four tricks he seemed destined to lose.

The early spade ruff was part of a long-range plan to cover the possibility of finding the trumps divided 4-1. Trumping a spade at trick two was unlikely to do any harm, but at the same time it had the enormous advantage of protecting the contract if anything went wrong in trumps.

It may seem odd that South wound up making ten tricks despite his four losers, but this anomaly is not really uncommon in hands where declarer does a lot of ruffing. In such hands one does best, in the long run, by counting winners instead of losers.

Life Begins At Forty:

Libraries Offer Variety Of Materials, Services

By JOANNE FARRIS

Can you believe that one-third of all Americans have never used a library?

Only 40% of the population used a library at least once in 1975 according to a recent survey, which also discovered that the average library-user makes six visits a year.

People go the library to borrow books or to read, to get information from the research or reference services available, or to use the copying equipment, the survey found. Users are white-collar workers; have graduated from high school, are married, and are under 50. This is the piece of information that inspired this column.

Senior citizens are missing a good bet if they fail to use the many facilities, functions, and services which are available at their local library.

Libraries are clean, comfortable, quiet places, and they have nice chairs to relax in and good light to read by. They contain books, magazines, newspapers, phonograph records and tapes, pictures and paintings, and extensive reference materials. All except the newspapers and reference sources can usually be borrowed.

Librarians know where to find just about every book or other available resource on almost any subject, and they can borrow some materials for you from other libraries across the country.

Reference librarians sometimes seem to be veritable Merlins; they have almost magical power to produce just the resource, item, or fact you need. The more difficult task, the more pleasure they take in meeting its challenge.

Some libraries have weekly movies; frequently they have access to unusual, interesting, education films that the general public cannot see elsewhere. Some have regularly scheduled book reviews. Frequently a library will sponsor a discussion group or public affairs forum.

All their programs are open to the public. One must become a member to be able to borrow materials. Generally membership is free to any resident of the community in which the library is located. Where I live we have a little village library. For a nominal fee I am eligible to use all of the resources of the large metropolitan library nearby.

College and university libraries augment the facilities of the public libraries. However, these private libraries are not as easy of access as they used to be. Their own students and faculties tax their facilities to capacity. More than that, they have been increasingly beset by forms of vandalism that most of us over 50 can hardly believe.

Books are stolen, defaced, and torn up. Some readers just tear out whole sections and make off with them. Now and then someone will "trash" the card catalog or deface drawer after drawer of it.

Colleges have had to institute user fees for the general public. One prestigious institution which has priceless volumes on its open shelves charges $500 a year. College libraries usually will grant day privileges to patrons who have a bonafide reason for using their facilities.

Julie Andrus

Happiness Stressed

Happiness is Julie Andrus' goal. She thinks personal happiness is very important but most of all she'd like to make other people happy.

And she has already reached part of that goal, according to the customers on her paper route. Her excellent service — "she is so regular, she's the best alarm clock I've ever had", says Mrs. Houser — is spreading a lot of happiness among customers and supervisors alike.

A carrier for The Lincoln Star at Wilber, Julie considers the subscribers on her route friends as well as customers and her only regret is that she didn't get a route years ago.

Profits from her business venture are enabling Julie to buy her own clothes, pay for her school lunches and buy many presents for friends and family members.

A student at Wilber-Clatonia School, Julie earns excellent grades and lists home economics as her favorite subject.

Interested in cooking, "because it's fun", Julie has been a member of the Future Homemakers of America for two years.

Other interests include tennis and a sizable bottle collection.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Andrus, say the route is giving Julie a chance to acquire a basic knowledge of business practices while providing a considerable boost to the family's finances.

Blimp Freak Has Plans For His Aerial Venture

Los Angeles (AP) — Blimp. There's something abut the very word that evokes mirth, and blimp freak Dean Engelhardt says. "I'm not a comedian, but even I can be funny when I'm talking about airships."

The world is not yet laughing with Dean Engelhardt.

Goodyear Rubber Co. is the best-known blimp owner. It has four You may have seen the swollen, silver Goodyear airships flashing their ads and messages over your city or on TV football games Engelhardt's blimp, which he bought used from Goodyear, is presently a flaccid bag lying in an airplane hangar in a suburb of Los Angeles.

But he has plans.

"Goodyear only carries its own ads and public service messages," said the slight, bespectacled flier whose venture seems less of a gamble when you realize he currently makes his living crashing airplanes for the movies

"A sponsor could hire us for a year and we would paint his message (if it's short) in 16-foot-high letters on the blimp," he said "I have other promotional ideas for the airship that are spectacular in the extreme," he added, gleefully silent about what those ideas might be.

Advertisers are not yet beating down the door of Engelhardt's modest bungalow in suburban Covina. He is "talking" with a number of prospective renters, he said.

Speaking to a reporter in a room given over to his blimpomania — models, diagrams, photographs, movies, a sample swatch of rubberized fabric — he said the ideas began spinning in his head soon after he first flew a Goodyear blimp in 1964.

It was not until 1972, though, that he began looking around for some available fabric and was offered a year-old, junior-sized, still-in-its-box blimp, for sale by Goodyear — cash and carry — in Phoenix, Ariz.

"I got a cashier's check and rushed right over before they could change their mind," he said What he got was the stripped-down model, minus the tail fins, engine and gondola where the two-man crew rides.

It has taken him until now, with the help of several ex-Goodyear experts, to get the 110-foot-long ship near flight readiness, though it will take another 60 days from the time it is rented to put it in the air

Police Arrest Four In Robberies

Lincoln police arrested three persons allegedly involved in an armed robbery of a Lincoln man near 23rd and A Sts late Friday night

Police said the victim had been assaulted with a table leg fashioned into a club and robbed of more than $20

Price Hikes Hailed As Sign Of Recovery

Washington (UPI) — New price hikes for gasoline, steel, copper and lead — combined with the prospect of increases for aluminum — were interpreted by government experts Friday as a "confirmation" of economic recovery.

These increases, all of them announced in the past few days, were certain to create new inflationary pressures at a time when President Ford is fighting to win the White House on his own

But administration economists said the increases provided no reason for alarm. "These price increases are within our forecast of 6% inflation this year," said William Seidman, Ford's chief economic adviser.

No Big Action Expected

Seidman anticipated no extraordinary efforts by Ford to discourage such increases, although they are being closely monitored by the administration.

Price developments over the past week included:

—A 1-cent per gallon increase in gasoline by several major oil companies, combined with a 2-cent, two-stage increase by Marathon Oil Co.

—An increase from 21 to 23 cents a pound in lead prices and a 4-cent-a-pound hike in copper by most major producers.

—An increase by U.S. Steel Corp. averaging about 6% on certain pipe and tubing products and about 7% on standard steel rails, effective May 1.

—Reports that the aluminum industry was preparing for price increases of as much as 10%.

Herman Liebling, the Treasury Department's chief staff economist, said these developments "should not come as any surprise," because raw material prices generally are the first to increase in a period of economic recovery.

Rises 'Not Udusual'

Such increases are "not unusual" at this stage in an economic recovery, he said. "In fact, they are a confirmation of economic recovery."

Liebling attributed the new increases to resurgence of demand combined with a depletion in the large inventories built up during the recession. Seidman added that prices in some of these industries previously had been depressed.

Liebling said the developments of the past week disprove any need for economic stimulation by the government.

He said they indicate a "steady, rather than a spectacular" expansion in prices "which would serve to keep inflation at a low rate if our policy remains as prudent as it has been."

Burglaries May Be Solved

The arrest of two juveniles in Lincoln Friday afternoon may have been the key to solving as many as 15 burglaries, according to police.

Police said the pair, both males, were arrested on warrants involved with an April 7 burglary during which a large quantity of ammunition and firearms were stolen.

Among the items recovered by police were firearms, some 6,000 rounds of ammunition, stereo equipment and drugs. The Nebraska State Patrol aided in the arrests, police said.

Fire Guts Rented Mobile Home

Fire swept through a trailer house at 251 Garber Ave. in seven minutes Friday morning, nearly totally destroying it, fire officials said.

No one was injured.

Anthony Pugliese, 23, who rented the trailer from Gartner Mobile Housing, at 1201 West O, left about five minutes before the fire was reported, firemen said. His wife, Patricia, was at work.

The fire's cause is being investigated.

2 Thirsty Lincolnites Arrested

Police arrested two thirsty Lincolnites Friday afternoon after they allegedly stole an eight-gallon keg of beer from a truck at a local liquor store.

Police said the pair removed the beer from a truck owned by K and Z Distributors while it was parked at Ken's Liquors at 1240 N. 48th. They were caught when they attempted to hide the keg near Robin Mickle School at 2500 N. 67th a short time later.

Blimp Freak Has Plans For His Aerial Venture

Los Angeles (AP) — Blimp. There's something abut the very word that evokes mirth, and blimp freak Dean Engelhardt says: "I'm not a comedian, but even I can be funny when I'm talking about airships."

The world is not yet laughing with Dean Engelhardt.

Goodyear Rubber Co. is the best-known blimp owner. It has four. You may have seen the swollen, silver Goodyear airships flashing their ads and messages over your city or on TV football games. Engelhardt's blimp, which he bought used from Goodyear, is presently a flaccid bag lying in an airplane hangar in a suburb of Los Angeles.

But he has plans.

"Goodyear only carries its own ads and public service messages," said the slight, bespectacled flier whose venture seems less of a gamble when you realize he currently makes his living crashing airplanes for the movies.

"A sponsor could hire us for a year, and we would paint his message (if it's short) in 16-foot-high letters on the blimp," he said. "I have other promotional ideas for the airship that are spectacular in the extreme," he added, gleefully silent about what those ideas might be.

Advertisers are not yet beating down the door of Engelhardt's modest bungalow in suburban Covina. He is "talking" with a number of prospective renters, he said.

Speaking to a reporter in a room given over to his blimpomania — models, diagrams, photographs, movies, a sample swatch of rubberized fabric — he said the ideas began spinning in his head soon after he first flew a Goodyear blimp in 1964.

It was not until 1972, though, that he began looking around for some available fabric and was offered a year-old, junior-sized, still-in-its-box blimp, for sale by Goodyear — cash and carry — in Phoenix, Airz.

"I got a cashier's check and rushed right over before they could change their mind," he said. What he got was the stripped-down model, minus the tail fins, engine and gondola where the two-man crew rides.

It has taken him until now, with the help of several ex-Goodyear experts, to get the 110-foot-long ship near flight readiness, though it will take another 60 days from the time it is rented to put it in the air.

Police Arrest Four In Robberies

Lincoln police arrested three persons allegedly involved in an armed robbery of a Lincoln man near 23rd and A Sts. late Friday night.

Police said the victim had been assaulted with a table leg fashioned into a club and robbed of more than $20.

Price Hikes Hailed As Sign Of Recovery

Washington (UPI) — New price hikes for gasoline, steel, copper and lead — combined with the prospect of increases for aluminum — were interpreted by government experts Friday as a "confirmation" of economic recovery.

These increases, all of them announced in the past few days, were certain to create new inflationary pressures at a time when President Ford is fighting to win the White House on his own.

But administration economists said the increases provided no reason for alarm. "These price increases are within our forecast of 6% inflation this year," said William Seidman, Ford's chief economic adviser.

No Big Action Expected

Seidman anticipated no extraordinary efforts by Ford to discourage such increases, although they are being closely monitored by the administration.

Price developments over the past week included:

—A 1-cent per gallon increase in gasoline by several major oil companies, combined with a 2-cent, two-stage increase by Marathon Oil Co.

—An increase from 21 to 23 cents a pound in lead prices and a 4-cent-a-pound hike in copper by most major producers.

—An increase by U.S. Steel Corp. averaging about 6% on certain pipe and tubing products and about 7% on standard steel rails, effective May 1.

—Reports that the aluminum industry was preparing for price increases of as much as 10%.

Herman Liebling, the Treasury Department's chief staff economist, said these developments "should not come as any surprise," because raw material prices generally are the first to increase in a period of economic recovery.

Rises 'Not Unusual'

Such increases are "not unusual" at this stage in an economic recovery, he said. "In fact, they are a confirmation of economic recovery."

Liebling attributed the new increases to resurgence of demand combined with a depletion in the large inventories built up during the recession. Seidman added that prices in some of these industries previously had been depressed.

Liebling said the developments of the past week disprove any need for economic stimulation by the government.

He said they indicate a "steady, rather than a spectacular" expansion in prices "which would serve to keep inflation at a low rate if our policy remains as prudent as it has been."

Burglaries May Be Solved

The arrest of two juveniles in Lincoln Friday afternoon may have been the key to solving as many as 15 burglaries, according to police.

Police said the pair, both males, were arrested on warrants involved with an April 7 burglary during which a large quantity of ammunition and firearms were stolen.

Among the items recovered by police were firearms, some 6,000 rounds of ammunition, stereo equipment and drugs. The Nebraska State Patrol aided in the arrests, police said.

Fire Guts Rented Mobile Home

Fire swept through a trailer house at 251 Garber Ave. in seven minutes Friday morning, nearly totally destroying it, fire officials said.

No one was injured.

Anthony Pugliese, 23, who rented the trailer from Gartner Mobile Housing, at 1201 West O, left about five minutes before the fire was reported, firemen said. His wife, Patricia, was at work.

The fire's cause is being investigated.

2 Thirsty Lincolnites Arrested

Police arrested two thirsty Lincolnites Friday afternoon after they allegedly stole an eight-gallon keg of beer from a truck at a local liquor store.

Police said the pair removed the beer from a truck owned by K and Z Distributors while it was parked at Ken's Liquors at 1240 N. 48th. They were caught when they attempted to hide the keg near Robin Mickle School at 2500 N. 67th a short time later.

Football Technique Aids Cromwell At Kansas Relays

By VIRGIL PARKER

Lawrence, Kan. — Kansas University staged its spring football game Friday night with quarterback Nolan Cromwell watching from the stands.

But the Jayhawk signal caller used a football technique earlier in the day to set a new Kansas Relays record in the greuling 400-meter hurdles.

Cromwell powered into a strong wind down the final stretch to a :49.8 clocking, eclipsing the KU Relays record of :51.2 set by Efren Gipson of Lamar Tech in 1974.

It was, however, only the second time for the race at that distance here. Normally the event is staged over 440-yards. But this is being an Olympic year, all the KU Relay events were switched to metric distances.

"I used a three-point football stance at the start instead of coming out of the blocks," the husky blond said. "I have always had trouble getting my steps down for the first hurdle when coming out of the blocks. I found that starting from a three-point stance, like a fullback or tailback in football, gets me to the first hurdle in perfect stride."

Cromwell's victory gave him the second leg toward a Triple Crown after setting a Texas Relays record of :49.74 a week ago. His effort to complete the Triple Crown will come next week at the Drake Relays in Des Moines.

The KU ace now has the two best times (Texas and here) posted in the world this season.

Cromwell's effort highlighted the first of two dawn-to-dusk days of competition.

Strong winds, nearly constant in the 10-15 mile-per-hour range and often gusting to 35 mph, hampered most competitors. The brisk breeze down the final stretch more than nullified the advantage of the aiding wind on the far side.

Though several "records" were set because it was a first-ever for some events at a metric distance, four KU Relay marks were bettered.

Like Cromwell's 400-meter hurdles, it was just the second time for a 1,500 meter run here. And Francisco Morera of Eastern Illinois was clocked in 3:46.2 to better the standard of 3:59.5 set by Oklahoma State's Larry Rose in 1971. The timing was far off the collegiate record of 3:33.1 by KU's Jim Ryun in 1967, however.

The other two came in field events when Dave Shepherd of Texas pole vaulted 17-5 and Phil Robins of Southern Illinois won the triple jump.

Robins had a winning leap of 55-5½, but it was wind-aided. The breeze calmed enough, however, for him to be credited with a legal jump of 54-1½ to bypass the record of 53-10¼ set by Charlton Ehizuelen of Illinois last year.

Nebraska's Dave Green and Neville Murray both qualified for the triple jump finals. Green, despite leaping 51-1½ — a career best and the second-best in Nebraska school history — finished one out of the money in seventh place. Murray also had a career best of 49-10¼, but was far back in the strong field.

Coach Frank Sevigne's Huskers fared quite well during the Friday action, however.

Both Dean Herzog and Doug Phelps cleared 6-9 as a 25-man high jump field was narrowed to 13 competitors for Saturday's finals.

Sprinter Ron Hoagland qualified for the 100-meter finals after a :10.4 clocking, the equivalent of a :09.6 century.

The Huskers also qualified a mile relay team into Saturday's finals by finishing second in their heat.

Though Ray McKenzie and Tom Dovel left Nebraska back in fourth place after the first two legs, Chuck Malito brought the Huskers into contention with a strong run and Ray Mahoney closed the gap some more to finish second behind Wichita State.

Malito just missed in the 400-meter hurdles. He was third in his heat. The top eight times made the finals. Malito was ninth overall.

Harold Stelzer didn't fare as well. He was boxed in early during the running of the 1,500 by the crowded field, and finished 19th in 3:56.5, the equivalent to a 4:14 mile.

Sevigne had planned to bring Steve Millard here to compete in the shot put and discus, but he was left home at the last minute because of a leg strain suffered in the Texas Relays last weekend.

Nebraska will have a defending champion in action Saturday when Scott Sorchik competes in the javelin. He won the event last spring with a toss of 239 feet.

The Huskers will also enter a two-mile relay team of Matt Reckmeyer, Keith Whitaker, Paul McClain and Ron Fisher on Saturday.

While Friday's action was devoted in great part to preliminary and semifinal action, the majority of the feature events are on the concluding Saturday slate.

World record holder Ivory Crockett will be in the open 100-meter dash; Olympic Gold medalist Rick Wohlhuter will be after his third straight open division 1,500 victory; and three 18-foot vaulters are entered in that open event.

The marathon day starts with the marathon run at 7 a.m.

Ajic Jay Neb. Derby Contender

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — Don't dismiss Ajic Jay just because she failed to win her latest start.

The 3-year-old filly still remains a solid contender for Saturday's 10th running of the Nebraska Derby here at Fonner Park. And if she does win — she'll earn the largest winner's share ever offered by an outstate Nebraska race track.

The purse is a record $23,340 with the winner earning $14,010.

The Larry Staroscik-trained filly, with her classic late-move, has already triumphed here in the 6-furlong Baxter Handicap and the 6½-furlong-Grand Island Elks Handicap.

She finished second to Screenplay by one-half length in a mile allowance chase last Saturday. That gave her a 1976 record of two victories and one second in four outings for earnings of $7,225 for owner Les Horn of McCook.

Since fillies receive an automatic concession of five pounds at this time of year, the 119 pounds assigned her is actually 124 pounds. That would be top-weight in this 10-horse field.

Don Von Hemel's Stanton County and Tom Chaffee and Dwight Clum's Pachuto have each been saddled with 122 pounds for the mile chase.

Stanton County, who earned an allowance win at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., before arriving at Fonner, was beaten a head by Ajic Jay in the Elks Handicap on April 3.

The gelding moved to the front from the start and just missed as Ajic Jay swung wide into the stretch with her late move that proved decisive.

Pachuto has earned more than $32,000 in his career with six victories, six seconds and two thirds in 19 outings. As a 2-year-old, Pachuto won his first start here impressively and then won at the State Fairgrounds in Lincoln and Louisiana Downs.

Ajic Jay will be ridden by her usual pilot, Wayne Anderson. Tom Greer will ride Pachuto and no rider has been named for Stanton County.

A year ago, the Nebraska Derby was a handicap stakes split into two divisions. Richard Boushka's and H. A. Mayor Jr.'s Bold Trap and the Don Von Hemel-trained Pampered Brother captured verdicts.

Other entrants and their riders (if assigned) include Mike Kemling's Get Up Chuck (117 and Fred Ecoffey); the Kansas City Racing Stables' Prairie Music (115 and Dave King); Don Ladd et al's Bob's Decision (114 and Ken Jones); Clara Heilman's Screenplay (113 and Al Herrera); Ed Luther's Duke of Wisner (111 and Salustio Burgos); Tom Sisson's P. Dean (103 and Rob Williams); and Claus Jons' Schleswig Holstein (108).

Hardwick Gains Bowling Lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Billy Hardwick moved to a 90-pin lead over Don McCune after the fifth round of the $125,000 Tournament of Champions Friday.

Hardwick, 34, has been fighting a six-year slump, during which he has failed to win a major championship. But now he says he has regained the mental formula that brought him his last title in 1965.

He averaged 225 for the fifth round of eight games. For the 40 games rolled so far, he averaged 218. In match play, he has gone 12-4. And, with 30 bonus pins awarded for each victory, his 40-game total is 9,111.

McCune, Munster, Ind., rolled a 9,021, followed by Jim Godman, Lorain, Ohio, 8,948; Dick Weber, St. Louis, 8,946, and Gary Dickinson, Fort Worth, 8,933.

Eight games remain in the 48-game qualifying section.

Husker Scrimmage Set

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's football team will hold its third full-scale scrimmage of spring practice Saturday afternoon in NU's Memorial Stadium.

Coach Tom Osborne, still looking for a starting middle guard and depth at some key positions, plans to try to use his top four quarterbacks at least some with the No. 1 offensive unit.

These include returning starter Vince Ferragamo; redshirt Tom Sorley, who missed last week's scrimmage because of a back injury; and Randy Garcia and Ed Burns.

The coaching staff will be looking at defensive secondary candidates in an effort to find backup strength. Depth also is a concern at center and tight end.

The Huskers have installed most of the offense and defense planned for next season.

In getting ready to play the spring game on May 1, however, Osborne said none of the new ideas will be used since season-opening foe Louisiana State will be scouting the game.

The middle guard question isn't apt to be settled Saturday because three of the seven candidates for the position probably will miss the scrimmage.

They are Rod Horn, a defensive tackle who was scheduled for a look there Wednesday but strained a knee; Jeff Pullen, who broke a finger earlier this spring; and isn't scheduled to resume practice until Monday; and Mitch Webb, who may be back next week after recovering from a knee strain.

Those healthy enough to scrimmage are Dan Brock, who's back injury so sufficiently healed to permit contaet work on Wednesday; John Plucknett, a senior-to-be from Beatrice; and three freshmen candidates — John Havekost of Scribner; Oudious Lee of Omaha and Kelvin Roehrs of Lincoln.

Warrants Issued After Incidents Mar Hockey Tilt

TORONTO (UPI) — Warrants were issued Friday night for the arrest of three Philadelphia Flyers—Don Saleski, Joe Watson and Mel Bridgman—in connection with on-ice incidents Thursday during a National Hockey League playoff game with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The three Flyers surrendered themselves to a downtown Toronto police station Friday night. They were accompanied by city lawyer Austin Cooper and Albert Wiseman, assistant security director for the NHL.

The trio, Cooper said, would have no comment to make to the press.

Earlier, a police spokesman said the three would be taken to police headquarters for fingerprinting and photographs after making statements at the downtown station house.

The players were expected to be released on their own recognizance, pending an appearance in court Saturday morning.

Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry earlier announced the warrants would be issued following a penalty-filled 5-4 win Thursday by the Leafs, cutting the Flyers' lead in the best-of-seven quarterfinal Stanley Cup series to 2-1.

One incident involved a policeman allegedly being hit behind a penalty box at the Maple Leaf Gardens.

McMurtry said the warrants issued against the three spelled out the following charges:

—Watson: two charges of assaulting a police officer, two charges of common assault and one dangerous weapons charge (a hockey stick).

—Saleski: two charges of common assault and one dangerous weapons charge.

—Bridgman: one charge of assault causing bodily harm.

The assault charges carry maximum penalties of five years and the dangerous weapons charge carries a minimum of two years and a maximum of five years.

McMurtry said he did not expect the three players would be jailed during any part of the procedures Friday and Saturday morning, which would allow them to play in the fourth game of the series scheduled for Saturday night.

Reaction from Flyers coach Fred Shero was that Ontario officials "were overstepping their bounds.

"Every sport must police their own sport and the Flyers would go the full extent of the law to protect the three players," Shero told newsmen Friday afternoon.

NHL officials and Leafs officials were not immediately available for comment.

Toronto lawyer Bill McMurtry, brother of the attorney-general and head of a commission of inquiry in 1974 into violence in hockey, commented Friday: "It's not that they can't find any solution, it's that they can't see a problem.

"One day they're going to wake up and find a dead hockey player at center ice."

Four players were ejected from the contest with game misconducts, Jack McIlhargy of Philadelphia and Ian Turnbull, Scott Garland and Kurt Walker of Toronto. There were 12 major penalties in the game with play halted for brawls in both the first and second period.

It was the second major stand taken against violence in hockey in the past three days, as the World Hockey Association suspended five players and levied fines totaling $50,000 against two of its teams for a brawl involving the Quebec Nordiques and Calgary Cowboys Sunday night.

The action, announced by WHA Executive Director Ben Hatskin, came after the Nordiques issued the league an three-pronged ultimetum, threatening to drop out of the playoffs and withhold the gate receipts of the first two games in Quebec if the demands were not met.

The Nordiques wanted Calgary forward Rick Jodzio suspended for life for his attack on Quebec forward Marc Tardif.

AL Owners Defy Kuhn By Continuing Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — American League owners voted unanimously Friday to defy baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and proceed with their planned expansion to Toronto for 1977.

Lee MacPhail, president of the AL, announced the action less than two hours after Kuhn's office said the commissioner had given the National League two weeks to proceed with its proposed expansion to Toronto and Washington.

The commissioner's action, in effect, blocked the AL's plans for Toronto but the AL simply did not accept it.

"The American League vigorously disputes the authority of the commissioner to attempt to retroactively interfere with its expansion to Toronto," MacPhail said. "The American League, in compliance with all baseball rules, officially expanded to Toronto on March 26 and now has legal and moral responsibilities to Toronto.

"Although the American League does not recognize any obligation on its part or on the part of professional baseball to either place a franchise or play games in Washington, in an effort to cooperate, the American league has offered to play a significant number of regular season games there in 1977. This offer has apparently been turned down and is now withdrawn."

The Washington Post reported that the AL had offered a plan for playing 26 games in Washington, 13 by the nearby Baltimore Orioles and one each by the other clubs if the AL got Toronto.

The Orioles, who had at one time offered to play a package of games in the nation's capital, were reportedly hesitant about the latest plan and the commissioner apparently considered the package insufficient.

"Toronto is a permanent member of the American League and I have been directed by a unanimous vote of our League to proceed with our program to place a team and play an American League schedule of games in Toronto in 1977," MacPhail's statement concluded.

Kuhn's action came in a statement teletyped to all 24 major league clubs.

"I have based this decision on baseball's long-standing promise that Washington would be given consideration in the event of expansion," the commissioner's statement said.

"I am following this course because of the inability of the American League, since my April 1 decision, to provide a suitable solution for Washington."

Meanwhile, Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, huddled with league officials, formulating a reply to Kuhn's statement.

The American League, which requires three-quarters approval in franchise matters, formally awarded Toronto a franchise on March 20, voting 11-1 for the 1977 expansion. The National League, which needs unanimous approval for expansion, was blocked by negative votes by Cincinnati and Philadelphia.

A few days later, the AL reached agreement for a $7 million Toronto franchise with a group headed by the Labatt's Brewery. Meanwhile, NL owners remained stalled at the 10-2 vote.

It was at that point that NL President Chub Feeney asked the commissioner to intervene.

On April 1, Kuhn said that the AL could go to Toronto but tied the important proviso of satisfying Washington to any such expansion. He also gave MacPhail and the AL owners seven days to come up with a solution. That deadline was extended twice and earlier this week, the commissioner huddled with the American League Planning Committee in Chicago.

Again, no solution was reached in the dilemma and Friday's action followed.

Although the NL constitution requires unanimous approval of any expansion, Feeney requested that the Commissioner, under his power to do anything that is in the best interests of baseball, consider the NL plan.

It was learned that the commissioner's message to the 24 clubs referred to the 10-2 NL vote. He suggested that it was adequate to approve such expansion and that any provisions requiring a greater vote would be deemed not in the best interest of baseball.

January Leading Champions

CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI) — Don January, a droll Texan who returned to the tour last year after being retired for 2½ years, fired a four-under-par 68 Friday to wrestle the lead away from Hubert Green at the halfway point of the $225,000 Tournament of Champions.

January, 46, who qualified here by winning the San Antonio-Texas Open in a playoff with Larry Hinson in October, finished the day with a 36-hole total of 139, five under, for a one-shot advantage over Green, the first-day leader who carded a 71.

Australian Bruce Crampton shot a 70 and was all alone in third place with a 141 total, followed by U.S. Open champion Lou Graham, 69, and J.C. Snead, 70, both at 142.

In contrast to the rain, wind and cold of Thursday, the elite of field 22 played their second rounds in sunshine over the demanding 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course.

January put together nines of 32-36 in a round that included six birdies and two bogeys in the tournament sponsored by Mutual of New York. He sank putts of 12, 5, 15 and 10 feet for four of his birdies.

76ers Even Series

Buffalo, N.Y. (UPI) — George McGinnis' 34 points led six Philadelphia players in double figures as the 76ers smashed the Buffalo Braves 131-106 Friday night to even their National Basketball Association playoff series at one game apiece.

The deciding game in this Eastern Conference qualifying round series will be played Sunday afternoon in Philadelphia.

Fred Carter added 22 points, Doug Collins 20, Steve Mix 14, Joe Bryant 12 and Lloyd Free 10 in a game that saw the 76ers build a 15-point first half lead with a 60 per cent shooting spree. Philadelphia widened it to 19 points early in the third quarter before a mild Buffalo rally trimmed the margin to 95-89 early in the fourth period.

Six points was the closest the Braves got as two baskets by Bryant and goals by McGinnis and Mix pushed the 76ers to a 103-89 lead with nine minutes remaining. Philadelphia coasted after that.

Randy Smith topped Buffalo with 27 points. Bob McAdoo had 21, Don Adams 18 and Jim McMillian 14.

Carter scored 10 points and McGinnis eight as the Sixers took a 29-24 first quarter lead. Philadelphia controlled the boards 13-6 with Harvey Catchings grabbing seven and holding McAdoo, the league's leading scorer, to four points.

Buffalo rookie John Shumate was taken to the dressing room midway through the final period after a hard fall and did not return.

Football Technique Aids Cromwell At Kansas Relays

By VIRGIL PARKER

Lawrence, Kan. — Kansas University staged its spring football game Friday night with quarterback Nolan Cromwell watching from the stands.

But the Jayhawk signal caller used a football technique earlier in the day to set a new Kansas Relays record in the greuling 400-meter hurdles.

Cromwell powered into a strong wind down the final stretch to a :49.8 clocking, eclipsing the KU Relays record of :51.2 set by Efren Gipson of Lamar Tech in 1974.

It was, however, only the second time for the race at that distance here. Normally the event is staged over 440-yards. But this is being an Olympic year, all the KU Relay events were switched to metric distances.

"I used a three-point football stance at the start instead of coming out of the blocks," the husky blond said. "I have always had trouble getting my steps down for the first hurdle when coming out of the blocks. I found that starting from a three-point stance, like a fullback or tailback in football, gets me to the first hurdle in perfect stride."

Cromwell's victory gave him the second leg toward a Triple Crown after setting a Texas Relays record of :49.74 a week ago. His effort to complete the Triple Crown will come next week at the Drake Relays in Des Moines.

The KU ace now has the two best times (Texas and here) posted in the world this season.

Cromwell's effort highlighted the first of two dawn-to-dusk days of competition.

Strong winds, nearly constant in the 10-15 mile-per-hour range and often gusting to 35 mph, hampered most competitors. The brisk breeze down the final stretch more than nullified the advantage of the aiding wind on the far side.

Though several "records" were set because it was a first-ever for some events at a metric distance, four KU Relay marks were bettered.

Like Cromwell's 400-meter hurdles, it was just the second time for a 1,500 meter run here. And Francisco Morera of Eastern Illinois was clocked in 3:46.2 to better the standard of 3:59.5 set by Oklahoma State's Larry Rose in 1971. The timing was far off the collegiate record of 3:33.1 by KU's Jim Ryun in 1967, however.

The other two came in field events when Dave Shepherd of Texas pole vaulted 17-5 and Phil Robins of Southern Illinois won the triple jump.

Robins had a winning leap of 55-5½, but it was wind-aided. The breeze calmed enough, however, for him to be credited with a legal jump of 54-1½ to bypass the record of 53-10¼ set by Charlton Ehizuelen of Illinois last year.

Nebraska's Dave Green and Neville Murray both qualified for the triple jump finals. Green, despite leaping 51-1½ — a career best and the second-best in Nebraska school history — finished one out of the money in seventh place. Murray also had a career best of 49-10¼, but was far back in the strong field.

Coach Frank Sevigne's Huskers fared quite well during the Friday action, however.

Both Dean Herzog and Doug Phelps cleared 6-9 as a 25-man high jump field was narrowed to 13 competitors for Saturday's finals.

Sprinter Ron Hoagland qualified for the 100-meter finals after a :10.4 clocking, the equivalent of a :09.6 century.

The Huskers also qualified a mile relay team into Saturday's finals by finishing second in their heat.

Though Ray McKenzie and Tom Dovel left Nebraska back in fourth place after the first two legs, Chuck Malito brought the Huskers into contention with a strong run and Ray Mahoney closed the gap some more to finish second behind Wichita State.

Malito just missed in the 400-meter hurdles. He was third in his heat. The top eight times made the finals. Malito was ninth overall.

Harold Stelzer didn't fare as well. He was boxed in early during the running of the 1,500 by the crowded field, and finished 19th in 3:56.5, the equivalent to a 4:14 mile.

Sevigne had planned to bring Steve Millard here to compete in the shot put and discus, but he was left home at the last minute because of a leg strain suffered in the Texas Relays last weekend.

Nebraska will have a defending champion in action Saturday when Scott Sorchik competes in the javelin. He won the event last spring with a toss of 239 feet.

The Huskers will also enter a two-mile relay team of Matt Reckmeyer, Keith Whitaker, Paul McClain and Ron Fisher on Saturday.

While Friday's action was devoted in great part to preliminary and semifinal action, the majority of the feature events are on the concluding Saturday slate.

World record holder Ivory Crockett will be in the open 100-meter dash; Olympic Gold medalist Rick Wohlhuter will be after his third straight open division 1,500 victory; and three 18-foot vaulters are entered in that open event.

The marathon day starts with the marathon run at 7 a.m.

Ajic Jay Neb. Derby Contender

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — Don't dismiss Ajic Jay just because she failed to win her latest start.

The 3-year-old filly still remains a solid contender for Saturday's 10th running of the Nebraska Derby here at Fonner Park. And if she does win — she'll earn the largest winner's share ever offered by an outstate Nebraska race track.

The purse is a record $23,340 with the winner earning $14,010.

The Larry Staroscik-trained filly, with her classic late-move, has already triumphed here in the 6-furlong Baxter Handicap and the 6½-furlong-Grand Island Elks Handicap.

She finished second to Screenplay by one-half length in a mile allowance chase last Saturday. That gave her a 1976 record of two victories and one second in four outings for earnings of $7,225 for owner Les Horn of McCook.

Since fillies receive an automatic concession of five pounds at this time of year, the 119 pounds assigned her is actually 124 pounds. That would be top-weight in this 10-horse field.

Don Von Hemel's Stanton County and Tom Chaffee and Dwight Clum's Pachuto have each been saddled with 122 pounds for the mile chase.

Stanton County, who earned an allowance win at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., before arriving at Fonner, was beaten a head by Ajic Jay in the Elks Handicap on April 3.

The gelding moved to the front from the start and just missed as Ajic Jay swung wide into the stretch with her late move that proved decisive.

Pachuto has earned more than $32,000 in his career with six victories, six seconds and two thirds in 19 outings. As a 2-year-old, Pachuto won his first start here impressively and then won at the State Fairgrounds in Lincoln and Louisiana Downs.

Ajic Jay will be ridden by her usual pilot, Wayne Anderson. Tom Greer will ride Pachuto and no rider has been named for Stanton County.

A year ago, the Nebraska Derby was a handicap stakes split into two divisions. Richard Boushka's and H. A. Mayor Jr.'s Bold Trap and the Don Von Hemel-trained Pampered Brother captured verdicts.

Other entrants and their riders (if assigned) include Mike Kemling's Get Up Chuck (117 and Fred Ecoffey); the Kansas City Racing Stables' Prairie Music (115 and Dave King); Don Ladd et al's Bob's Decision (114 and Ken Jones); Clara Heilman's Screenplay (113 and Al Herrera); Ed Luther's Duke of Wisner (111 and Salustio Burgos); Tom Sisson's P. Dean (103 and Rob Williams); and Claus Jons' Schleswig Holstein (108).

Hardwick Gains Bowling Lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Billy Hardwick moved to a 90-pin lead over Don McCune after the fifth round of the $125,000 Tournament of Champions Friday.

Hardwick, 34, has been fighting a six-year slump, during which he has failed to win a major championship. But now he says he has regained the mental formula that brought him his last title in 1965.

He averaged 225 for the fifth round of eight games. For the 40 games rolled so far, he averaged 218. In match play, he has gone 12-4. And, with 30 bonus pins awarded for each victory, his 40-game total is 9,111.

McCune, Munster, Ind., rolled a 9,021, followed by Jim Godman, Lorain, Ohio, 8,948; Dick Weber, St. Louis, 8,946, and Gary Dickinson, Fort Worth, 8,933.

Eight games remain in the 48-game qualifying section.

Husker Scrimmage Set

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's football team will hold its third full-scale scrimmage of spring practice Saturday afternoon in NU's Memorial Stadium.

Coach Tom Osborne, still looking for a starting middle guard and depth at some key positions, plans to try to use his top four quarterbacks at least some with the No. 1 offensive unit.

These include returning starter Vince Ferragamo; redshirt Tom Sorley, who missed last week's scrimmage because of a back injury; and Randy Garcia and Ed Burns.

The coaching staff will be looking at defensive secondary candidates in an effort to find backup strength. Depth also is a concern at center and tight end.

The Huskers have installed most of the offense and defense planned for next season.

In getting ready to play the spring game on May 1, however, Osborne said none of the new ideas will be used since season-opening foe Louisiana State will be scouting the game.

The middle guard question isn't apt to be settled Saturday because three of the seven candidates for the position probably will miss the scrimmage.

They are Rod Horn, a defensive tackle who was scheduled for a look there Wednesday but strained a knee; Jeff Pullen, who broke a finger earlier this spring; and isn't scheduled to resume practice until Monday; and Mitch Webb, who may be back next week after recovering from a knee strain.

Those healthy enough to scrimmage are Dan Brock, who's back injury so sufficiently healed to permit contaet work on Wednesday; John Plucknett, a senior-to-be from Beatrice; and three freshmen candidates — John Havekost of Scribner; Oudious Lee of Omaha and Kelvin Roehrs of Lincoln.

Warrants Issued After Incidents Mar Hockey Tilt

TORONTO (UPI) — Warrants were issued Friday night for the arrest of three Philadelphia Flyers—Don Saleski, Joe Watson and Mel Bridgman—in connection with on-ice incidents Thursday during a National Hockey League playoff game with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The three Flyers surrendered themselves to a downtown Toronto police station Friday night. They were accompanied by city lawyer Austin Cooper and Albert Wiseman, assistant security director for the NHL.

The trio, Cooper said, would have no comment to make to the press.

Earlier, a police spokesman said the three would be taken to police headquarters for fingerprinting and photographs after making statements at the downtown station house.

The players were expected to be released on their own recognizance, pending an appearance in court Saturday morning.

Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry earlier announced the warrants would be issued following a penalty-filled 5-4 win Thursday by the Leafs, cutting the Flyers' lead in the best-of-seven quarterfinal Stanley Cup series to 2-1.

One incident involved a policeman allegedly being hit behind a penalty box at the Maple Leaf Gardens.

McMurtry said the warrants issued against the three spelled out the following charges:

—Watson: two charges of assaulting a police officer, two charges of common assault and one dangerous weapons charge (a hockey stick).

—Saleski: two charges of common assault and one dangerous weapons charge.

—Bridgman: one charge of assault causing bodily harm.

The assault charges carry maximum penalties of five years and the dangerous weapons charge carries a minimum of two years and a maximum of five years.

McMurtry said he did not expect the three players would be jailed during any part of the procedures Friday and Saturday morning, which would allow them to play in the fourth game of the series scheduled for Saturday night.

Reaction from Flyers coach Fred Shero was that Ontario officials "were overstepping their bounds.

"Every sport must police their own sport and the Flyers would go the full extent of the law to protect the three players," Shero told newsmen Friday afternoon.

NHL officials and Leafs officials were not immediately available for comment.

Toronto lawyer Bill McMurtry, brother of the attorney-general and head of a commission of inquiry in 1974 into violence in hockey, commented Friday: "It's not that they can't find any solution, it's that they can't see a problem.

"One day they're going to wake up and find a dead hockey player at center ice."

Four players were ejected from the contest with game misconducts, Jack McIlhargy of Philadelphia and Ian Turnbull, Scott Garland and Kurt Walker of Toronto. There were 12 major penalties in the game with play halted for brawls in both the first and second period.

It was the second major stand taken against violence in hockey in the past three days, as the World Hockey Association suspended five players and levied fines totaling $50,000 against two of its teams for a brawl involving the Quebec Nordiques and Calgary Cowboys Sunday night.

The action, announced by WHA Executive Director Ben Hatskin, came after the Nordiques issued the league an three-pronged ultimetum, threatening to drop out of the playoffs and withhold the gate receipts of the first two games in Quebec if the demands were not met.

The Nordiques wanted Calgary forward Rick Jodzio suspended for life for his attack on Quebec forward Marc Tardif.

AL Owners Defy Kuhn By Continuing Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — American League owners voted unanimously Friday to defy baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and proceed with their planned expansion to Toronto for 1977.

Lee MacPhail, president of the AL, announced the action less than two hours after Kuhn's office said the commissioner had given the National League two weeks to proceed with its proposed expansion to Toronto and Washington.

The commissioner's action, in effect, blocked the AL's plans for Toronto but the AL simply did not accept it.

"The American League vigorously disputes the authority of the commissioner to attempt to retroactively interfere with its expansion to Toronto," MacPhail said. "The American League, in compliance with all baseball rules, officially expanded to Toronto on March 26 and now has legal and moral responsibilities to Toronto.

"Although the American League does not recognize any obligation on its part or on the part of professional baseball to either place a franchise or play games in Washington, in an effort to cooperate, the American league has offered to play a significant number of regular season games there in 1977. This offer has apparently been turned down and is now withdrawn."

The Washington Post reported that the AL had offered a plan for playing 26 games in Washington, 13 by the nearby Baltimore Orioles and one each by the other clubs if the AL got Toronto.

The Orioles, who had at one time offered to play a package of games in the nation's capital, were reportedly hesitant about the latest plan and the commissioner apparently considered the package insufficient.

"Toronto is a permanent member of the American League and I have been directed by a unanimous vote of our League to proceed with our program to place a team and play an American League schedule of games in Toronto in 1977," MacPhail's statement concluded.

Kuhn's action came in a statement teletyped to all 24 major league clubs.

"I have based this decision on baseball's long-standing promise that Washington would be given consideration in the event of expansion," the commissioner's statement said.

"I am following this course because of the inability of the American League, since my April 1 decision, to provide a suitable solution for Washington."

Meanwhile, Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, huddled with league officials, formulating a reply to Kuhn's statement.

The American League, which requires three-quarters approval in franchise matters, formally awarded Toronto a franchise on March 20, voting 11-1 for the 1977 expansion. The National League, which needs unanimous approval for expansion, was blocked by negative votes by Cincinnati and Philadelphia.

A few days later, the AL reached agreement for a $7 million Toronto franchise with a group headed by the Labatt's Brewery. Meanwhile, NL owners remained stalled at the 10-2 vote.

It was at that point that NL President Chub Feeney asked the commissioner to intervene.

On April 1, Kuhn said that the AL could go to Toronto but tied the important proviso of satisfying Washington to any such expansion. He also gave MacPhail and the AL owners seven days to come up with a solution. That deadline was extended twice and earlier this week, the commissioner huddled with the American League Planning Committee in Chicago.

Again, no solution was reached in the dilemma and Friday's action followed.

Although the NL constitution requires unanimous approval of any expansion, Feeney requested that the Commissioner, under his power to do anything that is in the best interests of baseball, consider the NL plan.

It was learned that the commissioner's message to the 24 clubs referred to the 10-2 NL vote. He suggested that it was adequate to approve such expansion and that any provisions requiring a greater vote would be deemed not in the best interest of baseball.

Tourney Lead To Eastwood

Tallahassee Fla (UPI) — Bob Eastwood a 30-year-old Californian still looking for his first victory in eight years on the pro golf tour, shot a second-round 69 into a strong northwest Florida wind Friday to hang on to a one-stroke lead in the Tallahassee Open

Eastwood, no better than eighth on last year's tour when he finished a distant 110th on the money list, had a two-day total of 9-under-par 135

Lyn Lott, another unheralded tour pro, also had a 69 Friday for a second best 136 while Fuzzy Zoeller turned in the best score of the second round, a 6-under-par 66, to share third place honors at 139 with Ed Sneed who had a 70

All the pros who won during the past 12 months on the tour, with the exception of Jack Nicklaus who is taking the week off, are playing in the Tournament of Champions

The biggest name in this $80,000 event is 46-year-old Arnold Palmer who was in with a 72-143 after failing to make the cut in last week's Masters

ISU, Missouri Divide Twinbill

Columbia. Mo (AP) — Mike Lally knocked in six runs and Pete Woods won his sixth game of the season without a loss Friday as Missouri topped Iowa State 9-4 in the first game of a Big Eight doubleheader

The Cyclones came back with a 13-hit attack in the second game to defeat the Tigers 8-2.

Lally s two-run triple tied the first game in the bottom of the first inning and his grand slam homer highlighted a six-run second inning that clinched the decision for Missouri Chuck Weber of Iowa State hit a singleton homer in the fifth

The Cyclones broke up a 1-1 tie in the nightcap with four fifth-inning runs John Stocker s two-run double and a run-scoring single by Weber were the major blows in the inning

Evans' Blast Boosts Braves Over Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Darrell Evans smashed a three-run homer and Roger Moret put down a ninth-inning Los Angeles rally as the Atlanta Braves handed the winless Los Angeles Dodgers their fifth consecutive setback Friday night by a 3-1 score

Evans' homer came in the fifth inning off loser Tommy John, the Dodger veteran who was making his first major league appearance since July 17, 1974, when he ruptured a ligament in his pitching elbow

Elsewhere in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates remained unbeaten by downing the New York Mets 3-1, the San Francisco Giants walloped the Cincinnati Reds 14-7 and the Houston Astros defeated the San Diego Padres 4-1

In the American League, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Texas Rangers 3-1 and the Kansas City Royals turned back the Cleveland Indians 5-3

Detroit played at California in a late West Coast game

Dave Parker drove in two runs with a fourth-inning single and scored another on Frank Taveras' seventh-inning double to help Doc Medich to his first National League pitching victory as the Pirates beat the Mets The Pirates, only unbeaten team in the major leagues, won their fifth in a row

Bobby Murcer drove in four runs with a two-run homer and a bases-loaded single to lead an 18-hit attack that powered the Giants over the Reds and snapped pitcher Pat Darcy's 10-game winning streak

Run-scoring doubles by Enos Cabell and Cliff Johnson's highlighted a four-run outburst in the sixth inning and Ken Forsch knotched his third save in the last four games as the Astros topped the Padres for their fourth consecutive victory

Don Money, Sixto Lezcano and Darrell Porter drove in the runs and reliever Ed Rodriguez worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam to pace the Brewers over the Rangers

John Mayberry's tie-breaking two-run single in the eighth inning lifted the Royals past the Indians Mayberry's shot past reliever Don Hood's ear made it 4-2 deadlock and George Brett, who took third on the hit, came home on Hal McRae's grounder

Triplets Top Omaha, 5-4

OMAHA, Neb (AP)—Evansville overcame a 4-1 deficit with a pair of two-run homers by Jason Thompson and Mark Wagner in the eighth inning and opened defense of its American Association championship by downing Omaha 5-4 Friday night

A crowd of 5,646 saw starting Omaha pitcher Tom Bruno depart in the eighth after walking winning pitcher Gary Christianson, giving up a home run by Thompson and a double by Darvin Lane

Reliever Jerry Cram took the loss when Wagner homered

Evansville took a 1-0 lead in the second inning but the Royals counted twice in the third frame

Gary Martz homered, Bill Sudakis tripled and U L Washington singled to give Omaha its other runs in the sixth

Kearney Team To Visit Hawaii

Kearney (AP) — There may be more candidates than usual for next year's Kearney State College baseball team

Coach Guy Murray has announced that the Antelopes make a one-week road trip to Hawaii next spring

Murray said the University of Hawaii has invited KSC to Honolulu for a series of games against such teams as Florida State, Nevada-Las Vegas, Hawaii and other teams who have yet to be contracted

The first game is slated April 3, the last one April 9

Murray said team players will pay their own plane fares from Denver, and that the University of Hawaii will house and feed the players while they are in Honolulu.

Morning Briefing

Selmons Ink With Tampa Bay

Leroy Selmon
No. 1 Pick

No. 1 college draft pick Leroy Selmon and his brother Dewey, both of Oklahoma, signed multi-year contracts with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The new NFL club refused to disclose terms other than to say they were separate pacts. Dewey was the Bucs second round bonus pick. Their signing comes just before the Bucs' first camp for rookies and free agents.

Other Football

Washington Redskin coach George Allen, who's already picked up 12 players from the defunct WFL, picked up two more, both wide receivers. Allen signed James Thompson of Charlotte and Robert Evans of Birmingham.

Running back Bill Marek of Wisconsin and corner back-wider receiver Clarence Reece, formerly of Southern California, have been signed as free agents by the Chicago Bears.

The NFL, for the first time, is faced with a suit specifically challenging the legality of the collegiate player draft. The suit is by Jim Smith, the Washington Redskins' top draft pick in 1968.

Basketball

Rickey Green of Michigan said he may turn pro rather than play his senior year with the Wolverines. Green said he had put his name on the financial hardship list of the NBA.

Another collegiate star, Marquette's Bo Ellis, confirmed that he has also applied for hardship status. Both Ellis and Green have 24 hours before the NBA draft, tentatively scheduled for June 18, to remove their names from the list.

Charlie Schmaus, chief assistant basketball coach at Virginia Military Institute for the past four years, was named head coach, succeeding Bill Blair who went to Colorado.

Indiana's NCAA basketball champions will meet with President Ford for a breakfast, but because of NCAA regulations, it is doubtful that they can make a reception the night before being sponsored by a group from their home state.

Other Sports

Entries for seven cars, including one for defending champion Bobby Unser, arrived in the mail to increase the list for the May 30 Indianapolis 500 to 57. The number is expected to rise to 65.

Janet Guthrie, the first woman driver ever to enter a United States Auto Club race, took her first practice laps at the Trenton International Speedway.

John Randolph, whose track and cross-country teams at William & Mary dominated the Southern Conference for the past eight years, was named Army's head track and cross-country coach, succeeding the late Carleton Crowell.

The strongest field and one of the weakest group of American entries will comprise the 2,200 runners that pour out of Hopkinton Green Monday in the 80th Boston Marathon.

Baltimore Orioles' pitcher Ross Grimsley picked up another win, this time in court. Criminal assault charges were dismissed against the pitcher, when the judge rejected a prosecution contention Grimsley intended to hit someone when he threw a ball into the Fenway Park bleachers.

Muhammad Ali held the first workout in Landover, Md., for his heavyweight title defense against Jimmy Young April 30 and announced afterward that he had been invited to hold a championship bout in Turkey.

Michigan State's trustees formally approved contracts for new head football coach Darryl Rogers and basketball coach Jud Heathcote.

Hubert Green, who won three straight golf tournaments, was an easy winner of the March poll for the Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year Award.

Pete Rozelle, Bowie Kuhn, Clarence Campbell and Larry O'Brien, heads of football, baseball, hockey and basketball, have tentatively accepted ivitations to participate in the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame induction ceremonies next month. The four have been invited to present plaques inshrining the founders of Detroit's four professional sports teams.

Cathy "Cat" Davis successfully defended her world women's lightweight title when she knocked out Bobby Shan at 26 seconds of the second round. Willie Pep, former world featherweight champ who is often mentioned whenever a discussion of the greatest fighter pound-for-pound arises, attended the bout and said: "I looked at Cat and I saw myself 30 years ago. If I didn't know she was a woman, I'd have sworn it was a carbon copy of myself."

KSU Topples Kansas Twice

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State got a pair of good pitching performances and some timely hitting on the way to a sweep of a Big Eight doubleheader Friday with the Kansas Jayhawks, 6-5 and 8-5.

The Wildcats won the first game behind the pitching of lefthander Dave Tuttle who struck out nine for a record of 82 strikeouts so far this season.

Pitcher Ted Power and rightfielder Greg Korbe combined to give K-State its victory in the nightcap. Power also struck out nine and allowed only four hits while Korbe collected three hits, two of them home runs, and four RBIs.

K-State's season's record now is 28-9. KU's dropped to 15-10.

KU's ace, Roger Slagle, who had a 6-0 record and a .38 ERA going into the first game, gave up six runs on eight hits and suffered his first loss.

First game

Kansas	002 300 0—5	6 3
Kansas St.	002 031 x—6	8 2

Roger Slagle and Andy Gilmore; Dave Tuttle and Craig Cooper. W—Tuttle 7-0. L—Slagle 6-1.

Tourney Lead To Eastwood

Tallahassee, Fla. (UPI) — Bob Eastwood, a 30-year-old Californian still looking for his first victory in eight years on the pro golf tour, shot a second-round 69 into a strong northwest Florida wind Friday to hang on to a one-stroke lead in the Tallahassee Open.

Eastwood, no better than eighth on last year's tour when he finished a distant 110th on the money list, had a two-day total of 9-under-par 135.

Lyn Lott, another unheralded tour pro, also had a 69 Friday for a second best 136 while Fuzzy Zoeller turned in the best score of the second round, a 6-under-par 66, to share third place honors at 139 with Ed Sneed who had a 70.

All the pros who won during the past 12 months on the tour, with the exception of Jack Nicklaus who is taking the week off, are playing in the Tournament of Champions.

The biggest name in this $80,000 event is 46-year-old Arnold Palmer who was in with a 72-143 after failing to make the cut in last week's Masters.

ISU, Missouri Divide Twinbill

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Mike Lally knocked in six runs and Pete Woods won his sixth game of the season without a loss Friday as Missouri topped Iowa State 9-4 in the first game of a Big Eight doubleheader.

The Cyclones came back with a 13-hit attack in the second game to defeat the Tigers 8-2.

Lally's two-run triple tied the first game in the bottom of the first inning and his grand slam homer highlighted a six-run second inning that clinched the decision for Missouri. Chuck Weber of Iowa State hit a singleton homer in the fifth.

The Cyclones broke up a 1-1 tie in the nightcap with four fifth-inning runs. John Stocker's two-run double and a run-scoring single by Weber were the major blows in the inning.

Evans' Blast Boosts Braves Over Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Darrell Evans smashed a three-run homer and Roger Moret put down a ninth-inning Los Angeles rally as the Atlanta Braves handed the winless Los Angeles Dodgers their fifth consecutive setback Friday night by a 3-1 score.

Evans' homer came in the fifth inning off loser Tommy John, the Dodger veteran who was making his first major league appearance since July 17, 1974, when he ruptured a ligament in his pitching elbow.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates remained unbeaten by downing the New York Mets 3-1, the San Francisco Giants walloped the Cincinnati Reds 14-7 and the Houston Astros defeated the San Diego Padres 4-1.

In the American League, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Texas Rangers 3-1 and the Kansas City Royals turned back the Cleveland Indians 5-3.

Detroit played at California in a late West Coast game.

Dave Parker drove in two runs with a fourth-inning single and scored another on Frank Taveras' seventh-inning double to help Doc Medich to his first National League pitching victory as the Pirates beat the Mets. The Pirates, only unbeaten team in the major leagues, won their fifth in a row.

Bobby Murcer drove in four runs with a two-run homer and a bases-loaded single to lead an 18-hit attack that powered the Giants over the Reds and snapped pitcher Pat Darcy's 10-game winning streak.

Run-scoring doubles by Enos Cabell and Cliff Johnson's highlighted a four-run outburst in the sixth inning and Ken Forsch knotched his thrid save in the last four games as the Astros topped the Padres for their fourth consecutive victory.

Don Money, Sixto Lezcano and Darrell Porter drove in the runs and reliever Ed Rodriguez worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam to pace the Brewers over the Rangers.

John Mayberry's tie-breaking two-run single in the eighth inning lifted the Royals past the Indians. Mayberry's shot past reliever Don Hood's ear made it 4-2 deadlock and George Brett, who took third on the hit, came home on Hal McRae's grounder.

Triplets Top Omaha, 5-4

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Evansville overcame a 4-1 deficit with a pair of two-run homers by Jason Thompson and Mark Wagner in the eighth inning and opened defense of its American Association championship by downing Omaha 5-4 Friday night.

A crowd of 5,646 saw starting Omaha pitcher Tom Bruno depart in the eighth after walking winning pitcher Gary Christianson, giving up a home run by Thompson and a double by Oarvin Lane.

Reliever Jerry Cram took the loss when Wagner homered.

Evansville took a 1-0 lead in the second inning but the Royals counted twice in the third frame.

Gary Martz homered, Bill Sudakis tripled and U.L. Washington singled to give Omaha its other runs in the sixth.

Kearney Team To Visit Hawaii

Kearney (AP) — There may be more candidates than usual for next year's Kearney State College baseball team.

Coach Guy Murray has announced that the Antelopes make a one-week road trip to Hawaii next spring.

Murray said the University of Hawaii has invited KSC to Honolulu for a series of games against such teams as Florida State, Nevada-Las Vegas, Hawaii and other teams who have yet to be contracted.

The first game is slated April 3, the last one April 9.

Murray said team players will pay their own plane fares from Denver, and that the University of Hawaii will house and feed the players while they are in Honolulu.

Roman Zipper Wins Tondi Cap

Grand Island — The Kemling Brothers of Aurora will certainly attest to the power of entries.

Trainer O. D. Kemling saddled a three-horse entry of Roman Zipper, Roman Doc and Queen's Turn in Friday's $8,250 Tondi Handicap over 6 furlongs here at Fonner Park. Roman Zipper won, earning $4,950 and Roman Doc finished second, to receive $1,650 giving Kemlings a check for $6,600.

Ridden by Al Herrera, Roman Zipper stayed behind the pacesetting Roman Doc until making his move around the far turn. He won by one-half length in 1:12 3-5.

The entry paid $4.00, $3.80 and $2.20 while Steven Would, ridden by Fred Ecoffey, showed for $3.00.

The Good Friday crowd of 6,066 and the mutuel handle of $532,207 both set Fonner Good Friday records. The mutuel handle was also a weekday Fonner record.

Arbor Day Awards Scheduled

Nebraska City (AP) — The National Arbor Day Foundation will present awards to corporations, news media and various organizations at ceremonies in Nebraska City April 24.

The foundation said millions of trees were planted this year and a greater appreciation of them was generated by efforts of the organizations.

Projects to be recognized range from a massive "tree farm" program sponsored nationwide by the American Forest Institute to local projects in many areas.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, will receive the J. Sterling Morton Award, the foundation's highest honor, for his work in conservation legislation.

Astronaut Ronald E. Evans will receive a special award for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA will be honored for its moon tree seedlings program.

Seedlings were taken to the moon on the Apollo 14 flight, studied for possible adverse effects, given a clean bill and planted across the United States.

Evans, who has logged more than 300 hours in space, was the command module pilot for Apollo 17, America's last scheduled manned mission to the moon.

Special awards will be given to Morton Steinhart for his support of the foundation and to William Lucas, retired regional forester from Denver who played a primary role in establishmemt of the National Arbor Day Foundation.

Organizations to be honored include the Nebraska Audubon Council of Malcolm.

The council will be recognized for its efforts in educating the public concerning the balance of nature in the unspoiled Platte River area which serves as a feeding ground for various migrating birds.

Post Seeks Buffet's Help

Omaha (AP) — When Omaha investor Warren Buffett received his copy of the Washington Post several weeks ago, there was a one-word note handwritten in the Page 1 margin: Help.

The margin note, signed by Washington Post publisher Katharine Graham and others, referred to a skill Buffett has learned as a Post director: rolling and wrapping newspapers for the mail.

Mrs. Graham joined reporters and advertising salespersons subbing in production jobs for a time after a pressmen's union strike began last October.

Arbor Day Awards Scheduled

Nebraska City (AP) — The National Arbor Day Foundation will present awards to corporations, news media and various organizations at ceremonies in Nebraska City April 24.

The foundation said millions of trees were planted this year and a greater appreciation of them was generated by efforts of the organizations.

Projects to be recognized range from a massive "tree farm" program sponsored nationwide by the American Forest Institute to local projects in many areas.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, will receive the J. Sterling Morton Award, the foundation's highest honor, for his work in conservation legislation.

Astronaut Ronald E. Evans will receive a special award for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA will be honored for its moon tree seedlings program.

Seedlings were taken to the moon on the Apollo 14 flight, studied for possible adverse effects, given a clean bill and planted across the United States.

Evans, who has logged more than 300 hours in space, was the command module pilot for Apollo 17, America's last scheduled manned mission to the moon.

Special awards will be given to Morton Steinhart for his support of the foundation and to William Lucas, retired regional forester from Denver who played a primary role in establishmemt of the National Arbor Day Foundation.

Organizations to be honored include the Nebraska Audubon Council of Malcolm.

The council will be recognized for its efforts in educating the public concerning the balance of nature in the unspoiled Platte River area which serves as a feeding ground for various migrating birds.

Post Seeks Buffet's Help

Omaha (AP) — When Omaha investor Warren Buffett received his copy of the Washington Post several weeks ago, there was a one-word note handwritten in the Page 1 margin: "Help."

The margin note, signed by Washington Post publisher Katharine Graham and others, referred to a skill Buffett has learned as a Post director: rolling and wrapping newspapers for the mail.

Mrs. Graham joined reporters and advertising salespersons subbing in production jobs for a time after a pressmen's union strike began last October.

One of my favorite persons is a Pisces author; she writes as if the words were smooth glass, crystal-like, transparent, translucent, ephemeral, luminous. There is a Neptunian, dream quality to her work; it is Pisces all the way and symbolic and a truth, eternal truths blossom, bloom, shine through crevices and turn winter into spring and cold, dank hiberation into life. Yes, I am proud that Anais Nin is a friend of astrology.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emphasis on what goes on "inside." Spiritual qualities, values are spotlighted. You reach beyond the obvious — there are subtle nuances which you can grasp. Specifically, long-distance calls, travel, publishing opportunities manifest themselves. Libra, Pisces are in picture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Concern with hidden matters may dominate. Study Aries message in effort to gain proper perspective. Refuse to be awed or too much fascinated by "occult" matters. Be down-to-earth where taxes, leases, arrangements with partner or mate enter picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Go slow, lie low. Wait, listen, observe — gather and analyze data. Give more-than-usual attention to image, public relations. Aquarius, Leo individuals could be part of scenario. Hunch is valid, but premature.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Burden is lifted or at least "lighter." Social activity accelerates. You have chance to make interesting contacts. Accept invitation. Read and write. Study Aries message. Express yourself. Ignore family member who revels in "singing the blues."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Do your homework. Be familiar with basic material. Accent on creativity, romance, love. You could become inextricably involved. Nothing is halfway — it is all or nothing, young person delights and exasperates. You will survive — both of you!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You could "tie up" agreement in writing. No reliance on chance will suffice — get agreements in black-and-white. Be analytical — accept necessity for change, variety, possible travel. Be alert, active, "alive."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Domestic area could be highlighted. Your residence, home surroundings command attention. Whispered words should not be blown up out of proportion. Taurus and another Libran figure prominently. You are going to make significant adjustment involving relatives.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): See as is, not merely as you wish people and places could be. One close to you reveals extravagant streak. Yes, money is very much in picture. Accent is on obtaining a realistic view of what you have — and "have not."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Lunar cycle is such that apparent setbacks work "backward," bommerang in your favor. Element of timing favors your efforts. What seems a castle built on sand turns out to be solid. Cancer, Capricorn figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Talkative individual will lift your spirits and provide encouragement. Aries, Libra could be part of picture. Accent is on what occurs at clandestine meetings, backstage, behind the scenes, in institutions, hospitals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friend with "special need" demands time, attention. Key is to organize your own priorities. Don't be cajoled into giving up valuables for one who talks in circles, cries, breast-beats and is a "psychic vampire." You will comprehend!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You attract favorable attention, notices. Some persons, with ambivalent attitudes toward you, swing in your favor. You could get promotion, opportunity to prove major point — or a direct citation which elevates standing.

IF APRIL 17th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are "powerful," direct, domineering, positive, creative, bent on succeeding — and very often you do. Cancer, Capricorn persons play important roles in your life. This very significant year will be highlighted in September. You marry, go into business, have addition to family — or extricate yourself from emotional quicksand.
